READY TO REOPEN HARD COAL MINES

WOULD RESUME OPERATIONS IN ANTHRACITE COAL FIELDS AT ONCE

Spokesman for Mine Owners Expresses Willingness to Resume Work at Old Wage Scale Pending Appointment of Commission to Investigate the Situation—Sends Message to Pres. Lewis

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company, and spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, announced today that he had requested John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, that the mine owners were willing to resume operations in the hard coal fields at the old wage scale pending the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation.

Warriner said he had telegraphed Mr. Lewis last night, suggesting that a conference of anthracite operators and representatives of the miners be held in this city Wednesday. Warriner's action followed a conference yesterday with United States Senator Popper, Governor Sirooul, W. J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, and William A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the United Mine Workers.

At this meeting, it became known today, Senator Popper read a letter from President Harding in which the president declared that further delay in the resumption of mining would mean "danger of nothing short of nationwide disaster."

Pres. Lewis Pleased
CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—President John J. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, today accepted an invitation from S. D. Warriner, heading the anthracite operators' scale committee, to meet the operators in conference at Philadelphia on Wednesday.

"You have broad promise upon which you have based your invitation is commendable and augurs well for the success of the conference," said Lewis in his message of acceptance.

FURTHER PARALYSIS OF RAIL TRANSPORTATION IN FAR WEST

Northern and Central California Without Freight Transportation East—Cities Without Mail Service—Fruit Growers Lose $1,000,000 a Day

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—Further paralysis of rail transportation in the far west and at least two instances of serious violence against railroad property, marked the opening hours of the seventh week of the strike of rail shop crafts workers.

Northern and central California today were without fast freight transportation east, and indications were the sole remaining passenger route also would be abandoned. Upwards of 1700 passengers were marooned in 10 trains abandoned in Arizona, New Mexico and California deserts by members of the operating brotherhoods.

Many cities of California's San Joaquin valley were without mail service as a result of cessation of transportation, and eastern mail, halted in Southern California Thursday, still was unmovable.

Fruit growers estimated their actual loss at $1,000,000 a day.

CALLS GRIFFITH'S DEATH CALAMITY

Collins Declares it is Not Too Late for De Valera to Honor Passing of Patriot

Urges Acceptance of Terms Free State Heads Offered to Unite Ireland

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—Michael Collins, leader of the national army, termed Arthur Griffith's death a calamity for Ireland, and said it was not too late for Eamon de Valera and his followers to honor the passing of a great patriot by accepting the terms the Free State government had offered to achieve the unity of Ireland.

Thousands Mourn Griffith
DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—The body of Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann cabinet, lay in state in Dublin city hall. Thousands of mourners passed by the bier, around which was stationed a guard of honor, chosen from the troops of the national army.

The body will lie in state until tomorrow night when it will be removed to the pro-cathedral.

Archbishop Byrne will preside at solemn requiem mass at 11 o'clock, Wednesday morning, the funeral and burial at Glasnevin, Dublin's northern suburb, immediately following.

In the Protestant churches yesterday, remarkable tributes were paid to Mr. Griffith, the friend of which was that the Free State lost in him a pillar of strength.

LONDON, August 14.—(By the Associated Press).—The allied premiers who have been discussing the German reparations questions here, since last Monday, adjourned today's session without reaching any agreement or making arrangements for another meeting.

Premier Poincare of France, and Mr. Lloyd George, the British prime minister, were as far apart as ever in their views of the situation when the heads of the various delegations met today. They separated after a discussion of 2½ hours without finding common ground.

Russell Declares Unionists Will No Longer Be Led By Political Parties

FITCHBURG, Mass., August 14.—Declaring that trade unionists will no longer be led by political parties or machines, H. A. Russell of Springfield, reporting for a special committee at the 27th annual convention of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, today urged union men to be independent in politics.

Many delegates opposed a plan for the state branch to mix up in politics and after a long debate, it was voted to appoint a committee of 15 to investigate and report on the question Wednesday. Women delegates demanded and secured representation on the committee.

Mayor John B. Fellows welcomed the delegates to Fitchburg, and other committees were named.

Because of the absence of union restaurants in Fitchburg, David Alperin of Boston asked the delegates to remove their badges and "act like natives" when they went to dinner in cafes.

Another strike was added to four now in progress in the city late morning when approximately 200 men employed at the Columbia Textile company's plant in Market street refused to go to work following a notice, received last week, that a 20 per cent reduction would go into effect today. The other mills in which strikes have been declared are the Hamilton, Bay State, Merrimack and Massachusetts.

80 CENTS LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Personal and Real Estate Valuations Increase Nearly Two Millions

Net City Levy and State Tax Considerably Lower Than in 1921

Lowell's tax rate for 1922 is $30.60 per thousand, a reduction of 80 cents from last year's rate of $31.40.

The rate was announced today by the board of assessors, at the end of three weeks of intensive work on the mass of figures assembled through assessments and other items that relate to it.

As announced in this paper last Saturday the total valuation of personal and real estate property in the city has advanced approximately $2,000,000 over last year's figures and has raised the grand total to slightly more than 130 and a half millions.

Coincidence with the establishment and announcement of the rate, was the publication of a letter, written to the assessors by Mayor George H. Brown, stating that it now seems that the receipts for this year will be $90,000 or $95,000 less than the first estimate and recommending that the figure of $653,000 be used instead of $745,000, as previously recommended by him. If the first figure had been used in connection with the compilation of the rate, it would have been less than $30, for 10 cents is added this year for every $13,000 expended.

A number of things enter into the reduction of the rate this year from the 1921 peak. Most important and instrumental in making this decrease

LOWELL'S NEW AUDITORIUM TO BE OPENED AND DEDICATED SEPT. 21

Speakers Will Include Vice President Calvin Coolidge, Governor Cox, Major General Clarence R. Edwards and Congressman Rogers—Invocation by Cardinal O'Connell—Benediction by Bishop Lawrence

The Memorial Auditorium and Building Commission met early this afternoon and voted that the date for the opening and dedication of the auditorium be set for Thursday, Sept. 21, at 8 o'clock p. m.

The date was held open to suit the convenience of Vice President Coolidge who was governor at the time that the act creating the commission was passed and, having signed the act creating the commission, he evinced a great deal of interest in the enterprise and intimated at the time that, if possible, he would attend the dedicatory exercises.

Since then, Mr. Coolidge has been elevated to the high office of vice president of the United States, but remembering his connection with the auditorium, he sent word that as soon as he could arrange a date after the middle of September he would advise the chairman of the auditorium commission through Congressman Rogers. The latter, after interviews with Mr. Coolidge and his secretary, informed the chairman of the commission that Mr. Coolidge had set Thursday, the twenty-first day of September, as the date that would be convenient for him to come to Lowell and address the people here in connection with the opening of their beautiful auditorium.

The date having been fixed, the commission then prepared and approved the following:

PROPOSED ORDER OF EXERCISES

- 1—Invocation by His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston.
- 2—Hymn, "America," by the Audience and Lowell Choral Society.
- 3—Address by His Excellency Calvin Coolidge, Vice President of the United States.
- 4—Address by His Excellency Channing H. Cox, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
- 5—The Hallelujah Chorus (from "The Messiah"), by the Lowell Choral Society.
- 6—Address by Major General Clarence R. Edwards.
- 7—Address by the Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Member of Congress.
- 8—Presentation of the key of the Auditorium to the Mayor of the City of Lowell by Mr. John H. Harrington, Chairman of the Memorial Building Commission.
- 9—Address of Acceptance by the Hon. George H. Brown, Mayor of the City of Lowell.
- 10—Grand Chorus, "Achieved is the 'Glorious Work,'" (from "The Creation"), by the Lowell Choral Society.
- 11—Benediction, by the Right Reverend William Lawrence, LL. D., Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts.
- 12—"The Star Spangled Banner," by the Audience and Lowell Choral Society.

Nearly all of the above dignitaries have agreed to be present. The commission has the assurance that they can depend upon Gov. Cox.

Major General Edwards has agreed to be present and so has Congressman John Jacob Rogers. Bishop Lawrence may find it impossible to attend because of a national conference of the Episcopal churches of the United States to be held in Portland, Oregon, about the middle of September, and which he will be obliged to attend. If Bishop Lawrence finds it impossible to come, Rev. Appleton Granville of St. Anne's church will be asked to pronounce the benediction. The commission has not yet been able to connect with Cardinal O'Connell, but has every hope that he may find it convenient to attend and open the exercises as a distinguished son of Lowell.

The organ builders are making every effort to have the organ completed at least far enough to provide accompaniment for the singing on that night, but if that is found to be impossible the Choral society will be instructed to provide an orchestra, the expense to be defrayed by the commission.

All the exterior work with the exception of Brown street will be finished this week, the street work completed and the white way lights installed within the next fortnight.

The commission is at work now on details of the dedication which will be given to the public through the press at an early date.

DRIVERS OF REVERE BUSES ARRESTED

REVERE, Aug. 14.—Chief of Police John J. Dyer arrested two auto bus chauffeurs at Revere beach yesterday afternoon after they had arrived there with a cargo of passengers from Malden. They were asked to drive to the police station, where they were arrested and soon bailed.

The men are technically charged with violation of Chapter 153, section 45 of the city ordinances, which means that they are charged with operating the buses without a license from the city council. The men arrested are Daniel MacLean, 25, unmarried, of 106 Forest street, Melrose, and Herbert Horvath, 27, married, of 312 Broadway, Everett.

The chauffeurs are employed by the Hart Bus Line, which operates buses to Revere beach from Malden. The men claim that the line is licensed to operate by the city council and although the order permitting the buses to operate which they claim was passed by the council was never signed by the mayor, it was not vetoed and became a law in 10 days after its passage automatically.

The buses have been liberally patronized and are said to have cut into the revenue of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company. The fare is 15 cents and the people who use them are loud in their praises of their service. The Eastern Massachusetts company sent a letter to Mayor Noonan more than a week ago asking him to stop the buses from operating in Revere. He sent the letter to the city council and no action has been taken on the matter.

It is understood that the drivers of the buses were warned during the week not to collect fares in this city or to stop to take on passengers and they have complied with the requests of the police, allowing their right to make such requests a bone of contention.

Several of the councilmen claim that the buses have a right to operate in the city, and the city solicitor, Samuel Grude II, Severy.

R. Cutler, is also said to be in favor of the buses.

Revere residents have been complaining about the street car service for a long time and they are in favor of having the buses operate in this city in the winter time also and make trips to Boston if it is possible.

The case will be heard in the Chelsea district court today and in a way it will be a test case. Chief Dyer claims the buses have no right to operate where there are car tracks and he says it is not a test case but that the law is being violated.

Although the chauffeurs were arrested at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the buses were operated throughout the afternoon and evening just the same.

SECOND ALARM FIRE SATURDAY NIGHT

Thirty horses were led to safety Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock when fire of unknown origin damaged the stable of Joseph P. Sharkey, 350 Middlesex street. The fire was discovered by one of the hostlers and Box 219 was pulled in. Owing to the congested nature of the vicinity a second alarm was pulled in shortly after the first.

Although the fire gained great headway it was soon subdued when five lines of hose started tearing the building apart. The horses were driven out a rear door and allowed to run down Appleton street where they were captured by pedestrians.

The building is owned by George L. Hinton of East Chelmsford. Other people to suffer losses in the same building were the picture-framing establishment of Max Rosenberg and an army and navy goods store owned by Karl Klotz.

ENGRAVED LORD'S PRAYER ON HEAD OF PIN

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—You have looked into a jeweler's window where the sensitive fingers of a watchmaker fitted tiny screws and wheels into the mechanism of a watch. You exclaimed, "What wonderful accuracy."

That's nothing. Here's a man who has engraved the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin.

Now there is no joke to this story. You aren't going to say the pin was a rolling pin 13 feet long and the man engraved it with a curse and a pickaxe. Nothing of the sort. It was an ordinary pin, the sort of a pin you have stuck into yourself many a time. And the man who did it is Howard Baker of Spokane, Wash., at the time employed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

You have seen the jeweler's fingers as they fitted in microscopic jewels to the works of a wrist watch the size of a dime. Compared to engraving the Lord's Prayer on the head of this pin, the work of the watchmaker would seem about as graceful as a horse trying to thread a needle.

Was a Three-Year Job

On the top of this pin are 276 letters, 15 punctuation marks and 12 lines. Some job? The answer comes back: Some job! It took the man three years and 11 days to complete it.

Since the time Baker wrote the Lord's Prayer, he has become blind and insane and now is in an asylum. He had contracted a debt to Charles J. Seymour, an Elk, who now is traveling about the country to show his treasure at fairs and exhibitions. He has employed it in lobbies of hotels from the Atlantic to the Pacific and has given the money he obtained to charity organizations.

Another remarkable achievement, a really fine pointed work of this master engraver is the etching of the letters "I. S. A." with periods after each letter on the point of a pin. This, too, is a regulation pin, the kind you stick in to yourself, except it is made of gold.

Must Use Microscope

You might think how convenient it would be for Seymour to own that pin. Each night when he said his prayers he wouldn't have to turn to the Bible to find the place. He simply could stick the pin in the pillow and read it off. But he would have to use a microscope and a big one at that.

Now we come to the most startling revelation of all. It is this: the man who took three years and 11 days to engrave the prayer made two mistakes, one of which is a misspelling. He has "followed be thy name." Instead of "followed be thy name." He also says "Forgive us our debt" when he should say "Forgive us our debts."

It would seem queer to anyone with a practical mind that a workman should spend over three years on a work that must have required the most accurate and painstaking and heart-breaking accuracy and finesse in workmanship and yet make two gross errors.

And yet the pin head is none the less wonderful.

HOW DUCKBILL GOT JEALOUS

IT SWAM GRACEFULLY ABOUT, SPREADING ITS WINGS AND FOLDING THEM AGAIN PROMPTLY.

Mr. Waggletail Duckbill was out for a walk. He stopped every now and then to gobble up something to eat. Then he would go on again.

Mr. Duckbill was feeling fine and very happy. He even hummed a little tune:

"A frog he would a-wooing go,
Whether his mammy would let him or no,
Hi empty-larum a diddle oh!"

He stopped and ate a beetle. Then he went on and sang his song all over again.

"A frog he would a-wooing go," and so on.

This time he stopped and ate a mosquito.

He hummed another line and stopped to eat a white grub.

He'd eaten a fuzzy worm, a bee, a rain-lord and a grasshopper when he spied a lovely white creature with a long neck away out on lily pond. It swam gracefully about, spreading its wings and folding them again proudly.

"Hm!" said Mr. Duckbill, looking awhile and then gazing thoughtfully at his own reflection in the water.

"I wonder why I have such a short neck, and no wings to speak of,"

Then he went on with his walk and his song.

By and by he saw a pony in a field waving his fine, long tail about to chase the flies away.

"Hm!" said Mr. Duckbill again. "What a fine tail! I wonder why I have such a nubby one!"

He went on with his walk again and his song.

"Goodness! What a fine pair of legs that bird has! That must be Mr. Crane. I wonder why I have such ugly, short legs!"

This time he went on with his walk, but not his song.

"How do you do this fine morning?" said Dr. Snuffles, passing by.

"Rotten!" grumbled Mr. Duckbill. "I'm going home and go to bed!"

Jealousy, my dears, is the worst disease there is.

No one was injured. The accident was reported to the police by Wallace McCamant, driver of the car occupied by Mrs. Coolidge.

Heavy Picketing at Pacific Mills

LAWRENCE, Aug. 14.—There was heavy picketing today at the gates of the Pacific Mills and police officers at the gates said that very few went into the plants to work. There were no disorders. An effort was made to open the Methuen company plant today, but as far as could be learned, nobody reported for work. An official of the mill refused to give any information.

In one demonstration howitzers, machine guns and tanks will be used. The platoon will be taken as the unit on which the military organization is built, and will go through an assault.

At the same time Maj. Paul Moulton, O. H. C. of the Chemical Warfare service, will be in charge of a demonstration of the methods by which an attacking battalion is protected by a smoke screen and gas bombs. A detail

SAYS GAS FATALITIES WERE ACCIDENTAL

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—James F. Connolly of 291 Chestnut ave., Jamaica Plain, two of whose children were killed by gas poisoning, said yesterday that he disagreed with a statement made by Medical Examiner Leary that the poisoning was probably a homicidal attempt by Mrs. Connolly. Mrs. Connolly and a nephew, James Hobson, are in St. Elizabeth's hospital suffering from gas poisoning. Another child was overcome, but recovered.

According to Mr. Connolly, Dr. Leary, Dr. Charles Malone, the family physician, and a police officer visited the Connolly home yesterday and witnessed a demonstration of the manner in which Mr. Connolly believes the poisoning took place.

Mr. Connolly said last night that he showed the medical examiner how the gas flame under the water heater could have been blown out by a draft when the kitchen door was shut or opened. The medical examiner with make no statement until he talks with Mrs. Connolly, according to the husband.

Mr. Connolly has talked with both his wife and his nephew. He said his wife told him that she lighted the heater at 1 o'clock Saturday to prepare a bath for the children and that she could remember nothing after that time. The nephew said he was awakened by the cries of one of the dying children.

Radio Is Important Study in Course for Juvenile Woodsmen

JUVENILE WOODSMEN TESTING THEIR RADIO SET

(By N.E.A. Service)
CULVER, Ind., August 14.—Lads of today who play at being woodsmen have adopted radio and are learning the code for wireless communication. In the Culver school of woodcraft, where 350 boys of 10 to 14 are devoting their summer to the study of woodcraft and the lessons of field and stream, radio is an important feature. They have literally surrounded their three instructors in their quest to keep space with Marconi. When the baseball diamond is deserted and the swimming pool is quiet, a crowd can always be found around the radio shack, an old-time one-room log cabin equipping in the midst of the woodcrafters' tented camp. Or toward evening, small groups of boys may be seen tuning up their own sets up beside their "bug tents."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ANNUAL INSTITUTE

East Northfield is the scene of the 76th annual institute of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor and the local members of the Northfield club left this morning shortly before 8 o'clock. The club consists of 18 members, with the following officers: President, Nathaniel Trull and Secretary, Clara Chapman.

In years past the convalescence has been held at Sagamore where Father Endeavor Clark makes his home, but has been transferred to East Northfield, the scene of many religious gatherings. The speakers engaged for this occasion are the very best and the recreational side will also be very attractive.

Dr. Clark, the founder of the Endeavor society, will be the speaker on next Saturday night. On "Saints' night" the Lowell club will present "Pecuniaries" and Captain John Smith. This year the Lowell people will have their own camera club under the direction of Carolina Dattlett.

The members of this club are: Nathaniel W. Trull, Clara Chapman, Elsie Perren, Frank J. Spooner, Edwin Wells, Curtis Stewart, Roy John Singleton, Mrs. Frank J. Spooner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Catherwood, Ruth Logan, Albert Ryan, Jr., Walter Matthews, Wesley Singleton, Irene Potter, Harriet Derron, Myrtle Walker, Cecil Gardner, Dorothy Adams, Gertrude Howes, Beulah Linneat, Viola Howler, Dorothy Morris, Bernice Fishbe, Cecelia Bull up of fine artists.

Long-Distance Phone Lines May Help Broadcast High-Class Concerts

BY PAUL F. GODFREY
America's Foremost Radio Authority

The American radio audience has become critical.

No longer is it content with "canned" music. It wants the real thing. Having heard both good and poor programs, it now demands the best.

Broadcasting does luxel. While increased demand for the leading stars is increasing the career of the men behind the scenes at the broadcasting stations. They are encountering more and more difficulty in getting topnotchers for their programs.

At first they were able to secure them for the publicity of the thing. But now the demand has been so great that the artists have put a price on their services.

First-class artists must, of necessity, eat. And most of their expenses are high. So they will not charge for their broadcasting services.

It is therefore almost impossible for the numerous broadcasting stations to hire a staff of first-class artists on tap at all times. The expense would be too great unless there were some way of passing the burden along to the public.

station, where a program could be so arranged as to have it of a high level continuously.

The program could be broadcast from any station in the land by interlinking land telephone lines.

This could be done at comparatively small expense. The American Telephone and Telegraph company's system covers the whole country. It is going in for broadcasting, too—"toll broadcasting." The services of these stations are to be sold to those who want to advertise.

In Practice
Perhaps the manufacturers of a popular automatic tooth-brush will arrange to have John McCormack sing at 8 p. m. eastern standard time. John will put in his appearance at the radio station on Broadway at the scheduled time.

Meanwhile Havana, Atlanta, Norfolk, Albany, Wheeling, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and Portland have all been connected with the New York radio studio.

The brush manufacturer pays $50 a station. For 15 minutes John McCormack is allowed to sing. His voice is carried by wire to the foregoing cities and broadcast from there.

Millions listen in and enjoy this first class entertainment.

Subsequent to his final selection, announcement is made that it has been possible to favor the public through the courtesy of the brush company. And purchasers of the celebrated brush will have borne the burden of McCormack's broadcasting offerings.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS IN MINING DISTRICTS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Optimism prevailed today in the mining districts for an early settlement of the anthracite dispute as the result of news that wage negotiations would be resumed in Philadelphia, probably Wednesday.

Hope that some settlement will be arrived at has been strengthened by the statement said to have come from John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the mine workers will withdraw their demands for an increase in wages.

A secret conference was held here yesterday by United States Senator Pepper, Governor Spruell, of Pennsylvania, Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company, and J. B. Spickard, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company, and William A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the United Mine Workers. At this conference steps were taken toward resumption of wage negotiations.

CONGRESS-BOUND
COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 14.—It is practically certain that Mrs. Luella W. St. Clair Moss, president of the Christian Science college here, will soon be sitting in congress.

She was nominated on the democratic ticket in the eighth Missouri district—and that's about the same as being elected.

HOW DO YOU COMPARE WITH CARMEL? Horse Sense—Tom Mix's Steed Shows It

(By N.E.A. Service)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., August 14.—Girls, compare your figure with that of Carmel de Smyth.
California recognizes her as its most perfect specimen of womanhood.
Here are her measurements—get out your tape measure and see how you stand:
Height..... 5 feet 5 1/2 inches
Weight..... 110 pounds
Neck..... 12 1/2 inches
Forearm..... 10 1/2 inches
Chest..... 36 inches
Waist..... 28 inches
Hips..... 40 inches
Upper leg..... 25 inches
Calf..... 11 inches
Ankle..... 8 1/2 inches
Do you fall short of that standard? Why don't you worry for Miss de Smyth says with a little care you can attain a figure as perfect as hers. "I wasn't born that way," she says. "Exercise gave me beauty of form." "Not dry, uninteresting calisthenics or work in a gymnasium," though they're valuable, if you find any zest in the exercise I found most valuable was on the beaches and in the mountains.

"Nothing can beat swimming. I had the advantage of nearness to the seacoast but that's not necessary. If you're miles inland, the river or lake will help you improve your figure."

"A close second to swimming in improving your form is mountain climbing. And you don't need mountains if you live in a hot region. hike and put all the pep and vigor you've got into your stride."

"Or if you're an office girl, walk upstairs in the morning instead of taking the elevator."

Miss de Smyth was the winner in 1916 of the San Francisco exposition contest to find the most perfect female figure in California.

Since then she's won many other awards and has received a claim for her honor of being the most perfect girl in the west.

And she's willing to challenge any girl in the United States!

THIS HORSE LOOKS RATHER DISCONSOLATE. THAT'S BECAUSE TOM MIX'S OTHER HORSE, TONY, WAS STARRING IN "JUST TONY," LEAVING THIS ONE TO PLAY A SUBORDINATE ROLE

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—You will know just what is meant by "horse sense" if you see "Just Tony," Tom Mix's new photoplay. The burden of the story is put upon Mix's horse, Tony, and this lifts the film out of the usual run of western stuff done by Mix.

This horse Tony is a barnished black, a magnificent animal from poll to crop with a haughty head and eyes that have the look of an eagle's. The very sight of him as he cavorts before the camera is thrilling drama, for he is thoroughly his own spirited self.

He is first shown as a leader of wild mustangs on a mountain prairie. Tom Mix saves him from a whinishing by his captor. Upon a later beating the horse chews his rope in two, kills his tormentor and returns to the prairie.

Mix gets into difficulty with the villains. The horse saves him from a noose by his captor. Later Mix tames the horse. The horse succeeds in getting away but returns to befriend the man who had protected him.

In the end Mix and the heroine lead the horse to the edge of the prairie to release him as a reward for his services in saving them and in confounding the villains. The horse starts to leave them but returns and puts his head upon Mix's shoulder.

All of this is as though the horse acted without prompting. That gives the scene its dramatic force. It makes a more effective fade-out than a hundred embraces of hero and heroine.

"Form" is lacking in "Just Tony." From the standpoint of construction it is a poor photoplay. But every minute that the horse is in the film he holds the eye and commands admiration.

The chief function of the photoplay or of any form of entertainment is to occupy the attention of the spectator. When that is accomplished there is little need of quibbling over form or technicalities.

Many stories are sent out from movie studios about the hobbies of stars. Such stories usually include horseback riding as one of the favorite sports of the feminine stars.

Yet few pictures ever show any of them able to keep their saddles. I have never seen such a story about Clara Adams. She rides a horse better than any other stage actress of the screen.

There is no doubting that after seeing her in "When Romance Rides" and "Just Tony."

The Movie Chatterbox
Louis B. Mayer has purchased film rights to "The Middleman," by Henry Arthur Jones.

Chaplin took 26 weeks to make his latest comedy.

Robert Keaton's father and mother appear with him as his screen parents in "The Electric House." Five years ago they were all together on the stage as "The Three Keatons."

Jon Kirkwood, Australian golf champion, demonstrates different sticks in the next Pathe Review. In one instance he uses a gold watch as a tee without the slightest damage to it.

News reels hereafter will not be censored by the state board before their release in Virginia.

Ruby Terry's new comedy is called "The Kid Reporter."

A VALIANT CRUSADER

Another notable and valiant leader of Irish freedom has been removed by the Silent Reaper from the front ranks of a dramatic struggle. It would be hard to find in modern political history a more determined, difficult and at times dramatic fight for an ideal than the life-long struggle of Arthur Griffith against great odds for his conception of a self-ruled Ireland.

Irish political creeds have risen and waned, and phases and even laws for Irish government reform have come and gone in the last decade or more of Anglo-Irish bickering, yet through it all the "Father of Sinn Féin" stuck to his elemental theories. And yet the day was not so long ago when Griffith was ridiculed in the Irish press and howled down on the Irish political platform.

President of the Irish Free State, Griffith was one of the founders of the Sinn Féin movement and among the foremost leaders directing its activities. His exact age was unknown, but he was between 45 and 50 years of age. Little known in Irish public life until after his return to the late '90s from South Africa, he began as a minor in the Rand. His talent for writing drew him into journalism, and he became editor of the United Irishman, a journal founded expressly to revive the doctrine of independence for Ireland. He worked like the proverbial "Irishman" practically all the publication himself.

The Irish revival movement was shaping every day more and more clearly, and Griffith became acquainted in his capacity as editor with many of the men and women who at that time began to emerge into the literary and intellectual vanguard of awakening Ireland. William Butler Yeats became his friend and editorial contributor. George W. Russell, one of the most exquisite of Irish poets, next joined forces with Griffith. He was a practical economist and a great student of Irish agriculture.

In the same company of heroic souls were James Stephens, whose delicate prose has won him many a friend and appreciative reader; Padraig Colum, Senor Bulfin, Mary Butler, T. O'Neil and a galaxy of other talented Irish people, including Eoin MacNeill, who was the inventor of an instrument to help the blind.

The adventures of Arthur Griffith since that time are well known to many readers of the Sun. He was regarded in Ireland as a pillar of strength as well as in England, where his talents were soon recognized. He knew what was going on in every chancellery of Europe, while the economic questions between England and Ireland were his special field. It was he more than anyone else who saved Irish nationality during the days that followed Parnell. He gave morale to a people who were beginning to feel their strength in parliamentary agitation after the scourge of the famine of 1846-47. He preached preparedness, gave the people "passive resistance," and formulated the demand for self-determination and called it "Sinn Féin." It was he who paved the way to the uprising of 1916, and it was his doctrines that formed the basis of the republican philosophy.

It can safely be said that no Irishman of today had a more intimate, copious and accurate knowledge of Irish history and politics than Arthur Griffith, who spent weeks at a time before the war pouring over newspaper files in the national library in Dublin. Americans know, too, that the distinguished Irishman who has taken the long trail home to his heroic father, was also little short of an expert in American history.

Griffith was a "Dublin man," loving his city as Parnell loved the city. Every yard of Dublin he knew—a completely urban man, if you will, and that made him remarkable among Irish workers and thinkers. The departed Irish leader has been somewhat out of the limelight of late, during the recent military activities, which have been largely directed on behalf of the Free State forces by Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government, set up under the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

The death of Arthur Griffith, coming with such startling suddenness, marks the passing of one of the foremost figures in modern Ireland.

THE WOOLEN MARKETS

Announcement has just been made that the annual two weeks' vacation for employees of the American Woollen company in the town of Maynard will be cancelled because of new business requiring these mills, of enormous capacity, to be run indefinitely. This is good news to employees of these mills, although they are to lose their annual vacations. Wages are maintained steadily at the schedules prevailing in the woollen mills all over New England, and a more "contented town" than Maynard would be hard to find at this time of industrial troubles almost everywhere.

The woollen mills, however, are putting out a product in excellent great demand at the present time, and much new business is coming right along in a way that must please the big mill owners. The American Woollen company's showings for next spring really spring another surprise on the trade. Prices named on the women's wear fabrics last Monday and on the balance of the lines of men's wear semi-staples and fancy worsteds which were shown, were again below the estimate of the trade. Prices on the best selling or "repeat" numbers in women's wear fabrics were from 15 to 5 per cent lower than the prices prevailing at the last spring opening, despite the fact that raw wool quotations have jumped more than 100 per cent in the last year. Velours and tricoots were the lowest for any spring opening in the American company's history.

The trend of prices named on men's wear fabrics was also unmistakably downward, three-quarters of the lines showing being priced below $2.50 a yard, whereas at the last spring opening only one-quarter of the lines were priced below this figure.

Business in most of the woollen lines is reported as brisk. Already certain of the lines for both men's and women's wear have been withdrawn from sale by the company. Naturally the cotton mill operators are watching the movements of the woollen trades with interest, as they have been doing for the past 24 months more than they ever have before. The truth is generally known that the cotton markets are not showing much life at present. Just when the real boom is to start cannot be foretold. It is well to know, nevertheless, that one branch of the great cloth industry of the country is booming along with more work and even better times in sight for 1923.

THE CLOTH MARKETS

Markets in the cotton manufacturing industry have been "flat" the past week, the excitement over the government crop forecast having furnished the sole interest of the week. The report has caused wide fluctuations in all markets, and to a considerable extent is traceable to the actual deadness of trade.

The national industrial outlook continues to be disturbing, and the strikes have interfered directly with the outputs of numerous mills. The south promises to forward cotton to the northern mills by water if the rail strike becomes worse. But the causes of the present stagnation in the cotton mills are chiefly within the industry itself. Jobbers claim to have overbought. For instance, to show the short demand for print cloth at the present time, Fall River sales, estimated at 90,000 pieces, were the lowest of the last several months. Buyers are reported there as indifferent. The sentiment in the general market, however, is reported as good and the mills are optimistic over the prospects of recovery. Fine goods are quiet and prices unchanged.

Little significance is attached in cotton mills circles here to the settlement of the strike of textile operatives in Newmarket, N. H. The labor groups regard the terms as a victory, but the settlement, because the agreement will affect only the silk workers, is rather irrelevant to the cotton situation. Newmarket is also without much weight in the textile field of New England.

THE BARLEYCORN POLL

According to a weekly magazine's nation-wide poll to obtain the sentiment of the people of this country on modifying the law and the question of permitting the legalized sale of light wines and beer, the "drys" are running a neck and neck race with the "wets" and the "modest" voters. More than 250,000 men and women favor modification of the law, according to the votes tabulated to date.

Among factory workers, sentiment is strongly in favor of modification, with that for repeal running a fairly close second and the vote for enforcement almost negligible. Three representative factories reported—for enforcement 472, for modification 2779, for repeal 1927.

These factories as a whole indicate among workers a sentiment of approximately 10 to 1 in favor of tempering the present dry laws.

Massachusetts, like New England, is on record as favoring modification, with strict enforcement second and absolute repeal third. Maine—the original prohibition state—is the only one of the New England group where sentiment for strict enforcement outranks that for modification.

HELPING HUMANITY

Lowell citizens are pretty familiar with the permanent character of much of the work performed for the benefit of local deserving humanity by the Salvation Army. The latest statistics from the national organization are really remarkable reading.

The figures show more than $5,000 converts to Christianity in the past year's wide activities. Christmas dinners were given to 293,000 poor families, 67 hotels for men, two for women, and eleven boarding-houses for young women are maintained. Eighty-eight industrial homes supplied meals to 1,711,000 persons and six children's homes have provided 634,000 meals. The Army aided more than 9,000 discharged prisoners, finding jobs for most of them.

When distributing charity to the deserving through your usual channels, don't overlook the Salvation Army and its splendid work among the lowly and the unfortunate. The Army's books are wide open and all may find out where the charity goes if you want to make the effort to find out. The remarkable feature of the last year's report is the rapidity with which the work of extending succor to the unfortunate is handled in the heavily settled sections of the U. S. A.

HIDES ON FREE LIST

Hides, boots and shoes and leather were voted back to the tariff free list last week by the senate, which thus concurred in action taken by the house more than a year ago. There was but one roll-call on hides and the result was 25 to 22 against the committee rating of two cents a pound on green or pickled hides and six cents on dried hides. Most of the "right" lines that have divided the senate up to the time the vote on hides and leather was taken, disappeared on this vote, and about the only surprise was that a majority of the republicans voted against making hides dutiable. Here we saw Senators Walsh and Lodge standing metaphorically side by side for free hides, boots and shoes.

The action of the senate is expected to result in more business in the leather or industries of America from now on. With the quibbles and wrangling settled so far as the tariff is concerned, we may expect business of many kinds in leather products to develop and increase to the benefit of the people as a whole.

ASPHALT PAVING

People will view with no little satisfaction the prompt action of the board of public service in awarding a contract to one of the largest and best known construction engineering companies in New England for furnishing asphalt paving for several of our streets. Particularly, the good folks of Pawtucketville should have cause to rejoice, for the contract means that the much abused section of Mammouth road between Fourth and Eighth avenues, or to the end of the car line, will be resurfaced.

If no asphalt had been laid this year, the splendid program outlined would have been seriously disfigured, but with some asphalt now assured, the summer of 1922 ought to show more progressive street work accomplished than any previous season over a long span of years.

Despite the mayor's assertions that the job of laying Amesite paving in Westford street will cost anywhere from $6 to $10 per square yard, it is said that itemized statements, covering the actual cost of materials and labor, will be presented to the board of public service at a meeting to be held within a day or two and will show the cost below $4. It may be slightly in excess of what asphalt would have cost, but the need was great enough to compensate for the extra expense. At least, one of the worst and most disgraceful stretches of main highway in the city finally has been properly fixed.

Secretary Hughes' visit to Brazil may prove historic. No doubt the Brazilians will lay their cards on the table for us, as usual. Let us hope the American mission will materially aid in further cementing the warm and friendly relations of the two great republics. Brazil today is rapidly growing in wealth, population and international influence. It is a country of true modernity, courage and high energy. Friendly relations from now on must be maintained if the United States is to retain Brazil as a faithful ally in the years to come.

We have no doubt if Grover Cleveland were alive today, he would swing gallily to the nearest golf links for a vacation tramp over the fairways, but if Thomas Jefferson happened to be in the office, the chances would be more favorable for a fishing trip with plenty of good bait.

Good news comes along with the gist of other stuff that mankind digests daily at the breakfast and supper tables. For instance, citronella is 20 per cent cheaper than it was a year ago and mosquitoes are more prevalent. Will there be a citronella trust next year do you think?

Harding's "final call" for immediate settlement of the rail strike, sounds familiar, somehow. With the labor chiefs unwilling to surrender on entirely rights and other important clauses figuring in the dispute, the Harding plan with its latest provision will probably not work out just yet.

Mobilizing the National guards may be O. K. in times of certain trouble, but down in some sections of the coal mining regions it looks as if it would be a mighty good plan to mobilize a few federal auditors and round up some of those operators' profit accounts.

Crowded steamship piers in New York harbor when the big transatlantic start for European ports, demonstrate at least one helpful method of solving the foreign economic problem. American dollars are thrice welcome "over there" just now.

As the old globe wings its way onward, folks realize that about the time those four-payment income tax returns are on their way to the proper haven, another year's tax has accrued and is making its usual noisy demands.

General Crowder appears to be the real boss down in Cuba after all. Cuba, you know, is really a financial dependent of ours, and Crowder, the ever-ready with mighty powers. Naturally President Zayas is having the law laid down to him as it should be laid.

The railroad labor board would have it that the shompen have come to bat and struck out, but the game isn't over yet.

A Thought

We never have more than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure.—H. B. Manning.

Sky-Scraper Needed

David Lippman met Oliver Herford in London and in the course of conversation remarked on the fact that as yet London had no sky-scraper. "Plity, too," said Herford, "I never saw a sky that needed scraping more."

Poor Little Daisy

It was Daisy's 12th birthday, and she had been given a silver thimble. Her friends admired the gift, but Daisy kept her sentiments to herself. In the evening a very human aunt was shown the useful present. "Poor child!" was her only comment. "Those are the first words of sympathy I've had today!" said Daisy—and her pent-up feelings found relief in tears!

Consistent Growth

In 1900, when the American Telephone and Telegraph company took over the American Bell Telephone company, there were 7,500 stockholders. In 1905 the number of stockholders had increased to 17,500. In 1910 there were 40,400 stockholders. In 1915, 65,600 stockholders and there are now more than 201,000 stockholders, more than half of whom are women. The average number of shares held by stockholders is 28.

Fatal Discovery

Esquimos in northeastern Siberia have discovered the Makin Process—how to stuff a dead man. They claim it is as fast as they can make it, and the whole country is in drunken chaos, according to returned travelers. A newspaperman in Alaska reports that Eskimo children are dying from lack of attention, and the older natives "drinking, gambling and killing each other in their orgies." Thus the whole "civilization" continues spreading.

Today's word is—Cambrian. It's pronounced—kam-brin, with accent on the first syllable. It means—Welsh; something pertaining to Cambria, or Wales. It is used also to describe a certain division of one of the geological eras. It comes from—Cambria, the Latin version of Cymru, the native name of Wales. It is used like this—"In recent international discussions in Europe the Cambrian statement of Mr. Lloyd George has proved too much for the Gallic impetuosity of M. Poincare." Or: "The Cambrian division of geologists time is so called because it was differentiated, or set apart, originally in Wales."

LARGE AUDIENCES

HEAR FORMER PASTOR

The last two Sundays the members and friends of the Westminster United Presbyterian church have had the pleasure of hearing a former parishioner, Rev. John Welsh, D.D., of Jonesboro, Ind. On both occasions he was greeted by large congregations.

Yesterday morning he spoke on the subject, "Life's Foundations," taking his text from Luke, sixth chapter, 43rd verse. "He is like a man which built a house, and digged deep and laid the foundation on a rock."

Dr. Welsh drew several illustrations from the parable, emphasizing the importance of foundation such as endurance, elevation and value in character building.

Dr. Welsh, a former Davenport and Lowell resident, has been privileged to travel and speak in nearly every state in the Union and has shown a natural ability to make practical application of things seen and observed during his travels.

For several years he has paid an annual visit to his father, Thomas Welsh of 2 Stanley avenue, Centralville, and this summer intended to spend a month in this section, but his stay has been cut short in order that he may attend the Bible conference which opens next Sunday at Winona Lake, Ind. He has made numerous friends while visiting here and the Westminster church is indeed fortunate to have had his services on two Sundays during his stay this summer.

BUSY WEEK-END FOR LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, Aug. 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Great Britain's versatile prime minister has the satisfaction of having passed a fairly successful week-end.

Although he had to cancel his annual pilgrimage to the Welsh National Eisteddfod, Mr. Lloyd George on Saturday enjoyed a round of golf and closed a $5,000 pound deal for two volumes of memoirs to be published in America next spring.

Then, during a quiet Sunday at Cheltenham, he received congratulations for the success of his entries in the West Surrey golf show at Farnham, four of his goals being awarded "highly recommended" honors in the open class for amateurs. Mr. Lloyd George is a member of the Surrey Golf society and maintains a large herd on his estate in Churt.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

I understand that there are a group of business men who have kept up the practice of visiting the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium twice a week regardless of the weather. This group may be found playing volley-ball in the gym every Tuesday and Thursday night from 5.30 to 7.30 o'clock. Included in the players are Charlie Brown, Ernie Lamson, Jack Crawford, Capt. Connelly, Fred Howard, Otis Butler, Steve Mahoney, Eddie Dooley and Physical Instructors Hockman and Hale. During the cooler months the group is enlarged by Joseph (Jiggs) Donahue, Eddie Slattery, Puckey Reynolds, Fred Church and a few others. For real good times these volley-ball meetings cannot be approached. The fact that most of the players refuse to give up the sport, despite the excessive heat, attests to the popularity of it.

The other day a woman of my acquaintance stopped me on the street and asked if I would call The Man About Town's attention to what she considered a certain traffic evil. She claims that the traffic officers on duty at various busy centers of the city pay too little attention to the pedestrian and too much to the vehicle. She averred that the officers seldom, if ever, seem to worry whether or not the walker made his way across the street. And then she claimed that when a signal was given for pedestrians to cross, the officer always insisted that they "step lively." This woman contrasted this city to New York and Boston where she claimed, the officers paid as much attention to the pedestrian as to the vehicle. The woman seemed to be so firm in her convictions that I did not attempt to argue with her, especially as I have noticed more than once the very condition she pointed out.

I notice that the politicians' campaign card is with us once again after an absence of about a year. In every window, nearly at every street corner, and on every available vantage point will be found the card calling attention to the fact that so and so is a candidate for such and such an office. While the winter snow has come and gone since our last local election, one is still able to find fly-specked cards which candidates failed to remove. Some of them carry the smiling faces of unsuccessful candidates who, following the counting of the ballots, did not carry that self-same satisfied look. From now until November, at least, we will have the measure of confronting these picture galleries, for where there is one there are many, and getting a real close-up of the powers that be in politics. Perhaps the display may continue through the winter, one never can tell what will happen, especially if Plan B goes on the ballot as predicted from many quarters.

Four weeks from today the public schools open for another year. Time steps right along, for it seems but yesterday that newspapers carried columns and columns of graduation programs and stories of commencement exercises. In many respects, or in one, at least, this approaching school year is an epochal one in local school annals, for the new high school building will be placed in commission and for the first time in years, all the activities of this large institution will be governed and carried on under one roof. No more stopping back and forth between the main building and annex in rainy weather, except as the boys will use the drill shed. With the opening of this magnificent building Lowell will be able to show a school equipment second to none in the east.

We wonder if the move of the Five Cent Savings bank in the erection of a new building in John street does not forecast a more rapid development of that section, so near to the main retail quarter, and yet remote because of its slight noise. Surely the natural expansion in the heart of the city in toward those streets in the area that extends from Merrimack street to the Doott mill. With the new bank building, the Y.W.C.A. and the new Merrimack Square theatre, why isn't that a good start toward a proper development of that district?

There's an institution on the Lafayette boulevard on the road to Hampton beach, just this side of Hampton Falls. "Moore's camping grounds for four lots" by name, that should be spread along the net work of state roads that run throughout this wide country. It is a neat, cozy pine grove where motorists can stop and eat their lunch, and everything is free. The grove is the idea of Mr. Moore, who runs a small store there and sells frankfurts, sandwiches, tonic, coffee and ice cream. He also runs a gas and oil tank for the machines. Through his foresight and thoughtfulness he has made a spot where tourists can stop

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

CURIOSITY

The world's an interesting place
No matter where you go,
And though I've roamed about its face
And wandered to and fro,
I'm always game to sail again
To seek some other shore;
I've only seen a bit of it
And, till I'm wholly quit of it,
I want to see some more!

Two billion people, more or less,
Are living on this sphere,
Seeking their share of happiness
In ways both sane and queer,
And all of them are different,
With different thoughts and lore,
Oh, there is such a slew of them,
I only know a few of them;
I want to know some more!

So I shall wander, while I can,
About the globe's expanse,
And try to learn the heart of man,
His dreams and his romance;
But mostly I shall rove about,
As I have done before,
Because, when once you start to go,
The fever's in your heart to go,
And go—and go some more!

Lord Northcliffe Dead

Continued

In the heart, which was followed by acute blood poisoning.

The death of no other unofficial personage could have made a deeper impression in England than that of Lord Northcliffe. The news was not a surprise, as the bulletins issued by the doctors for the last week plainly indicated that their patient was dying. The nature of the fatal illness has not yet been revealed, but it is expected the public will soon be told.

Lord Northcliffe was by far the greatest figure in British journalism and the first question on every one's lips was as to what effect his death will have on the policies of the Times and his other newspapers, which, since the end of the war have strongly opposed the Lloyd George administration and its principles with the notable exception of its dealings with Ireland, which the Northcliffe press supported throughout.

Alfred Charles Harmsworth, later Lord Northcliffe, was born at Chappell, Dublin county, Ireland, July 15, 1865.

His father, a barrister, wanted the future publisher to follow that profession also, but Harmsworth early showed a decided tendency toward journalism, and entered the writing profession in London when 16 years old.

When 21, Harmsworth founded "Answers" on the theory that a paper cheaply produced could be made within the financial reach of the masses. As

The father, a prosperous butcher, received threatening letters. Blackhanders wanted $400 for the child's release.

The father says he paid $200. "I was feared the boy might suffer the fate of the Verotta child, slain by kidnapers."

But luck was with him. Antonio was returned unharmed.

He had been held by conspirators at Syracuse.

This was a departure from established journalism, failure was emphatically predicted for the young publisher. But a few years later he sold Answers for $5,000,000.

Next he bought the London Daily Mail, and with it ventured into the then untamed field of "tabloid journalism," the telling of news briefly and concisely. In three years the Daily Mail attained the largest circulation of any newspaper in the English language.

Harmsworth rapidly obtained control of other newspapers and magazines (including the London Times) until he became the largest newspaper and magazine owner in the world and one of the richest and most powerful men in the British empire.

He was created baronet in 1904 and raised to the peerage as Baron Northcliffe in 1905. He was made viscount in 1917.

Northcliffe headed the British war mission to the United States in 1917 and was director of propaganda in enemy countries in 1918.

It is generally conceded that Northcliffe's attack on the conduct of the war was responsible for these changes which resulted in the elevation of Lloyd George to the premiership. Later, however, Northcliffe and Lloyd George became embroiled in a violent disagreement.

Lord Northcliffe married Mary Elizabeth Milner in 1888.

$400,000 FIRE IN ROUNDHOUSE

Score of Locomotives Destroyed by Fire at Portland, Maine, Yesterday

Early Report Set Loss at $1,000,000—Fire Followed Two Explosions

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) A large force of Republicans entered Portland today morning, taking the national guard completely by surprise. The attack was successful and the town is now isolated with republican troops patrolling the streets.

The Maine street police headquarters, which was occupied by the nationals, was the first objective to be stormed and taken. The garrison was captured.

The jail was the next to fall, and all prisoners, who were mostly republicans were liberated. These were supplied with arms, and other the rescuers in the attack on the town, in which bombs were freely used. The railway station and general post office were taken in succession.

Many of the inhabitants, especially Free State sympathizers, fled.

Completely Routed at Cork
CORK, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) The irregulars, who evacuated Cork before the advance of the national troops, have apparently been completely routed, and are flying hither and thither to the hills of northwest County Cork. The hills across the border in County Kerry are now sheltering large numbers of irregulars.

The barracks at Fermoy, north of Cork, were burned by the regulars yesterday previous to their evacuating the town. A brigade from Cork is reported to have disbanded at Macroom, following differences of opinion over the firing of the castle there. It is rumored that Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, has been arrested with Mary McSwiney. The whereabouts of Emma de Valera remains a mystery. When last seen here, he was driving westward in a closed carriage. This was on Thursday evening, shortly after the irregulars left the city.

The death of Arthur Griffith has caused a profound sensation in Cork, and the opinion is widely expressed that there is no one to take his place at this critical period.

VICTORY FOR IRREGULARS

Large Force Entered Dundalk, Taking National Garrison by Surprise

Irregulars Completely Routed at Cork—Flying Helter Skelter to the Hills

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) A large force of Republicans entered Portland today morning, taking the national guard completely by surprise. The attack was successful and the town is now isolated with republican troops patrolling the streets.

The Maine street police headquarters, which was occupied by the nationals, was the first objective to be stormed and taken. The garrison was captured.

The jail was the next to fall, and all prisoners, who were mostly republicans were liberated. These were supplied with arms, and other the rescuers in the attack on the town, in which bombs were freely used. The railway station and general post office were taken in succession.

Many of the inhabitants, especially Free State sympathizers, fled.

Completely Routed at Cork
CORK, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.) The irregulars, who evacuated Cork before the advance of the national troops, have apparently been completely routed, and are flying hither and thither to the hills of northwest County Cork. The hills across the border in County Kerry are now sheltering large numbers of irregulars.

The barracks at Fermoy, north of Cork, were burned by the regulars yesterday previous to their evacuating the town. A brigade from Cork is reported to have disbanded at Macroom, following differences of opinion over the firing of the castle there. It is rumored that Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, has been arrested with Mary McSwiney. The whereabouts of Emma de Valera remains a mystery. When last seen here, he was driving westward in a closed carriage. This was on Thursday evening, shortly after the irregulars left the city.

The death of Arthur Griffith has caused a profound sensation in Cork, and the opinion is widely expressed that there is no one to take his place at this critical period.

RICARD'S CONTEST

The response to the article in Saturday evening's Sun pertaining to the sending of Ricard's Most Popular Player Contest votes in as early this week as possible, has been very gratifying. Hundreds of votes were received at the Ricard store today, convincing Mr. Ricard that the fans of the city are certainly willing to cooperate with him in every way. As fast as the votes are received daily this week they will be sorted and counted by a corps of counters. A big rush is expected the last couple of days of the week, hence the urging to get your votes in the first part of the week. As the contest ends Friday night, this week, August 15th, all votes must positively be in at Ricard's store by closing time Saturday night. The feature of the contest has been conducted in a systematic way and the votes received each week have been kept separate so if there is any question of a doubt about the counting or the number of votes any one contestant received a certain week they are at liberty to call at Ricard's store and look over that week's total vote and count their own votes.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A pretty miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Annie Tomlinson last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Thorsby, 45 West Sixth street. The feature of the evening was a week marriage, following which refreshments were served by Mrs. Thorsby, Miss Rena Rogers and Miss Feline Plante. Games and dancing were also enjoyed.

LINER ADRIATIC DOCKS

Captain Praised—Says Merciful Providence Prevented Disaster

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Passengers of the Adriatic, which docked last night after an explosion at sea Friday morning, adopted a testimonial to Captain H. B. David and his crew, lauding their "discipline, coolness and kindness" and Captain David replied that the "working of an all-wise and merciful Providence, which controls our actions," had saved the ship and its human freight, from disaster.

The vessel will proceed on her return voyage without delay next Saturday. An investigation will be held in England.

Al Herman, of New York, black face comedian, returning after a season in England, and Miss Marguerite St. Claire of Forest Hills, N. Y., who was returning from a visit to her sister in Constantinople, were within forty feet of the explosion. Herman said to be the first person to reach the scene helped to dig out the dead and injured. Miss St. Claire thought her clothing was bitten and ran so fast she tore all the buttons from her shoes.

30TH WEEK OF TEXTILE STRIKE IN RHODE ISLAND

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Aug. 14.—Although the textile workers' strike in the Blackstone Valley entered on its thirtieth week today, about the only indication that it is still in force in this city is the presence of deputy sheriffs on guard duty at some of the mills affected. Mill officials continue their policy of silence, but police and employees say that the mills are now running with practically full quotas and some of them working overtime in order to meet departmental needs. This does not mean that all the strikers have gone back to work; many of them are still walking the streets, while a large number of the others have secured employment in other cities.

In Lonsdale, Ashton and Berkeley Villages, the strikers still hold out and although the mills have been open for several weeks, only a handful of employees have reported.

In Lonsdale and Ashton, a few looms are reported to be running. Several families were brought to Lonsdale from Manchester last week, but after working a few days, most of them decided to quit.

At a meeting of the strikers in Lonsdale yesterday, Edward H. Morris, one of the strike leaders, intimated that the relief funds were low and advised the strikers to accept work wherever they could get it, except in mills affected by the strike.

President Thomas H. McMahon of the United Textile Workers intimated that he is making an effort to have the strike settled.

Organizer John J. Thomas of the United Textile Workers, who has been in charge of the strike here, will be relieved today, because of illness, by Vice President James McKoskey, of New York.

Twin Boxers—One Trains, One Fights

The Hahn Twins are not generally known in athletic circles, although Bernie, the flashy bantam, has punched his way to a contender's place in the championship class.

Bernie and Mennie Hahn are from turbulent West Virginia, and while Bernie fights out of Wheeling, he resides in Wellburg, within a few miles of the recent mine war at the Cliftonville (W. Va.) mines.

Bernie owns a large farm and really has spent some time as a true rustic, but Bernie is the genuine farmer. Still, he finds time on the side to aid Bernie in his training, though he himself never has considered the professional side of the arena.

While the two are twins, Bernie has an edge in weight and does the most of his battling at the 122-pound mark, at 5 o'clock. Bernie is a 119-pounder and despite the lure of the ring as painted by Bernie, does not have the inclination to take it up as a means of livelihood.

Hahn, battling Patsy Brennan, veteran bantam, at St. Paul, the fight being postponed for over four hours while an electrical storm played havoc with the lighting plant. The bout got under way at 1:15 a.m. and Hahn punched out an easy win over the old-timer, who was game and kept coming.

Fletcher, Dimmed as Player Star, to Shine Again as Manager?

BY BILLY EVANS

To be picked right out of the brightest group in the National league firmament, the New York constabulary, and transferred to the gloomy obscurity of the Phillies' group, away down in an inconspicuous place on the horizon, is pretty severe on a baseball star.

But it happens to all of them. The star twinkles for just about so long, but once it begins to fade—

What You Are

Well, to drop metaphor, with McGraw and his Giants, it isn't what you were but what you are.

Thus it was that Arthur Fletcher took his departure, in due season, from the Polo grounds, just as many players had done before him.

Next we find him with the Philadelphia Nationals.

Unlike many men of his profession, Fletcher neither sulks nor loafed on the new team. He took the change as a matter of course, as an episode in the life of every ball player. And because he continued to play with the same snap and dash with the tail-end Phillies which had characterized him with the Giants for a period of more than ten years, he's still recognized as a valuable major league asset, though he's travelling on thin ice now, to the extent of 36 years of age.

May Be Manager

What's more, it is rumored in National league circles today that he's to become Philadelphia manager in 1923.

Fletcher's type is rapidly becoming thin in the major league circuit. A scholar of the McGraw school, he plays in the choke-on batter; never giving your opponent an inch and winning the game in front of you. He is using just such tactics with the Phillies, trying to win for them as he did for the Giants, but of course the same quality in the case is not present.

Fletcher has not reached the end of his string, far from it. He was regarded so highly by two major league clubs during the past winter that secret negotiations were alleged to have been carried on with Fletcher receiving offers to turn down the Phillies.

Just Take Others

Those cases attracted so much attention that the St. Louis and Brooklyn clubs were called upon to apologize to the owner of the Phillies and they escaped with a reprimand from President Heydler of the National league.

Fletcher had to step aside for youth just as did Max Baer, McGraw, Billy Gilbert, Dabich, Devlin, Brennan, Danlin, Seymour, Bowerman, Murray, Burns, Doyle, Herzog, Morin, Moritz, Margard, Salles, Chief Meyers and others.

In the pennant machine turned out by McGraw in 1911-1912-1913-1917 Fletcher belonged to the brilliant infield combination which had Merkle on first, Larry Doyle on second and Herzog or Zimmerman on third.

GIANTS INCREASE THEIR LEAD

Recruit Barnes Makes Good in His First Start as Giant Regular

Cards. Continue to Slip—Hornsby Knocks Out His 29th Home Run

Reds Halt Pirates' Winning Streak Which Had Reached 13 Games

NEW YORK, August 14.—Virgil Barnes, hurler, made his first start as a Giant regular in the box against the Braves, defeated them 4 to 2 and helped his fellow McGrawites to prolong their lead over the Cardinals whose seven errors contributed largely to their defeat by the Cubs, 16 to 5.

Hornsby's 29th home run of the season accounted for one of the St. Louis scores.

In the American league, both St. Louis and New York led in the box against the Braves, defeated them 4 to 2 and helped his fellow McGrawites to prolong their lead over the Cardinals whose seven errors contributed largely to their defeat by the Cubs, 16 to 5.

Brooklyn, through eighth and ninth inning rallies that netted three runs, was enabled to turn back the Phillies 3 to 2. It took Cincinnati ten innings to defeat Pittsburgh, 6 to 4, and break the Pirates' winning streak which had reached 13 games.

In the only other American league game, Speaker's men won from the Cobb clan, 3 to 2.

CENTRALVILLES WIN

Ninth Inning Rally Gives Locals Victory Over Woburn Legion Team

Centralvilles and the Woburn Legion team clashed at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon, and although the game was marred by a decision of the umpire in the ninth, to which nearly every fan took exception, it proved one of the very best of the Sunday series arranged by Manager Foye. The batting was terrific, and although the legion men were five hits to the bad when hostilities ceased, they had to their credit, leading by one, three doubles and a triple. The Centralvilles scored their rallies on 15 hits, two doubles and a triple. The final score was Centralvilles 7, Woburn 6.

Centralvilles started the scoring at the onset, tallying five in the first three innings. In the third and fourth the Centralville bats were idle, and continued so until the sixth. Woburn scored one in the first and remained quiescent until the sixth, when a volley of hits resulted in four runs. In the seventh they scored their sixth and last run, leading by one.

In the ninth the Centralville swatsticks were unwrapped once more, and they proceeded to punish the pill. McGraw hitting for Bradbury, was out on a fly to centre. McCarthy took up the burden for Garrity, and singled to first. O'Doherty muffed Daley's drive to third and there were three on base. He singled over second. J. Wenfer, brother of the slasher and former New England leaguer, made a quick return, but Umpire Marcotte called for a foul ball. McCarthy, safe although the spectators claimed an out by several feet. After a short dispute the game continued, and Walter Foye singled, bringing in Daley with the winning run. Crowe started at short, making two hits in three appearances, and effecting six perfect plays in the field. The score:

FRANCE AND AUSTRALIA IN FINAL MATCH

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Bright skies favored the concluding matches today between France and Australia in the tennis competition at the Longwood Cricket club to decide which shall oppose Spain for the right to meet the United States on the courts for the Davis cup. The players had enjoyed a two day rest, the result of postponement Saturday and Sunday abstention, and a renewal of the close contests of the early matches, all of which went the limit in sets, was expected.

For Australia, a single victory in the two singles of today would make advancement certain. France, at a disadvantage as a result of the antipodean doubles success after they had shared the singles honors, had to win both for tournament victory.

The first scheduled match between Pat O'Hara Wood, Australia, and Andre Gobert, France, was almost generally conceded to the latter. This would throw the decision into the last match of the tournament, with Germain L. Patterson, captain of the Australians, and world's singles champion, on turf opposing, against Gobert, France's young champion, and world's title-holder on dirt. Patterson's slight, considerably since Saturday, was a possible factor in this contest.

James O. Anderson, the Australian star, had been kept out of the play by bronchitis, was reported improved today.

LOWELL BOYS HAD EASY PICKING

The Maple A.A. found the picking easy at Chelmsford Centre last Saturday afternoon, defeating the Chelmsford A.A. by a 1 to 0 score in seven innings. "Babe" Lawson was on the mound for the Maples and pitched his customary clever game, letting the town boys down with a solitary single during his regime in the box. Desmarais worked for Chelmsford and was found for 12 hits by the Maples.

The Lowell boys scored two runs in the second, one in the fourth and four in the fifth on timely hitting. Their last double play prevented the Stoly Brock leaguers from scoring.

Manager John Wallace of the Maples wishes it known that his team is not the one which represented the Mass. Mills in the All league last season. Saturday's score by innings: Maples.....0 2 0 1 0 X-7 Chelmsford A.A.....0 0 0 1 0 0-1

Certain Pitchers and Their Jinx

By BILLY EVANS

It really is remarkable the jinx that pitchers often exert over certain clubs. Ever since the Yankees traded Urban Shocker to St. Louis, the great spitball pitcher has been a thorn in the side of the New York team.

His chief delight is beating the Yankees. He has turned the trick many a time since cut loose. As a matter of fact, it has not been unusual for him to work twice in a four-game series against the Yankees. Victory, as a rule, has crowned his efforts.

Of late the Yankees have been having a lot more success against Shocker, due to the break of the game, rather than to inferior pitching.

In a recent series at St. Louis, and in the last series at New York, Shocker twice opposed the Yankees in each series and suffered four defeats. Four games is more than he usually loses to the New York club during the entire season.

Our Morton of the Cleveland club is equally effective against the Boston Red Sox. Ever since Morton joined the American league, the Red Sox have been soft picking, even when the club was a strong pennant contender.

Ray Kulp of the St. Louis club has been almost as successful against Cleveland during the short time he has been in the American league.

Artie Nehf, the crack southpaw of the New York Giants, has always found the Pittsburgh team to his liking. The Pirates haven't beaten him since August 31, 1920. During that time Nehf has opposed the Pittsburgh club twelve times and scored a victory each time. Eleven straight wins over a ball club like Pittsburgh constitutes something of a pitching record. In those eleven games the Pirates were able to make only 15 runs, an average of less than a run and a half per game.

Prior to the trade that brought him to New York, Nehf was a member of the Boston Braves. Even with that club he exerted a strong influence over the Pittsburgh team, winning 12, and losing 1.

However, when he joined the Giants he began to yield an even more potent influence. As a member of the New York club he has won 17 and lost only two games to Pittsburgh.

Twin Sisters Win Honors

ELEANOR (UPPER) AND RUTH (LOWER) ARE THE SMITH TWINS OF COLUMBUS, O. WHO HAVE WON NATIONAL RECOGNITION AS SWIMMERS AND DIVERS. UPPER SHOWS ELEANOR IN AN ACTION POSE. BELOW THE SISTERS ARE GETTING AWAY TO A FINE START.

(By N.E.A. Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—Ruth and Eleanor Smith of Columbus claim to be the only twin sisters holding national honors as swimmers and fancy divers. They are no much alike that Ruth has to identify action pictures of herself by studying out the broken finger on Eleanor's left hand.

Wearing the colors of Ohio State university, the Smith sisters, as freshmen, established district records in the only three meets in which they competed during the indoor tank season just closed.

Eleanor tied the world's record for a 60-foot pool by swimming 100 yards free style in 1:04.4 at the Columbus Athletic club. Ruth finished second in 1:05.4.

The twins again finished one-two in 60 yards, free style, at Cleveland, Eleanor edging 20.1 for a new district mark.

Ruth is applying for recognition of 122.6 as new time for the 100-yard national breast stroke, since she set that pace in the Columbus Athletic club tank shortly after Eleanor had covered the distance in 1:27. The last national championship record allowed was 1:29 in Ruth's name.

The family rivalry may break out anew on land now for Eleanor stepped out to distinction in a different direction this spring by running one leg of the 220-yard relay race in which four Ohio State university girls established a new world's record of 29:4-6 seconds for women.

Babe Out of Hospital

NEW YORK, August 14.—Babe Ruth's absence from the game because of an abscess on his right leg, caused by a slide, will be shortened, his physicians announced today.

The home run king was ordered to the hospital Friday for treatment and was dismissed last night. He was told to rest for several days. His wife said that Babe expected to be in the game again tomorrow or Wednesday.

"DON'T BET"—STRAIGHT TIP FROM JOCKEY

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Here, some tips "straight from the leader"—from the American jockey, Frank O'Neill, premier rider of French race tracks, and regarded as the greatest jockey in the world.

Says O'Neill: "I never gamble on horses to a game of fools. I never bet, and I never give tips to friends."

"The only certain thing about horse racing is its uncertainty. The merest trifle may transform the certain winner of one moment into the certain loser of the next."

"No jockey who knows the game regards his race as won until the judges has hoisted the winning numbers."

Hint of French Tracks

O'Neill is the idol of the French tracks and in 14 years racing in Europe has won 1300 races, prizes to the owners ranging from 2000 to 1,000,000 francs.

You can't find O'Neill loafing about the boulevards or race tracks or jarring around Montmartre. He has a home and garden in the suburb of Maisons Laite, where he lives with his wife, his 15-year-old son and two little daughters.

"I've been successful and I've made money," says O'Neill. "But I don't make anything like the huge sums dovesters say I do. When I put ride I'm at home playing with the kids."

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

NEWPORT, R.I., August 14.—Easy matches for the leading players, among the 61 entrants in the first round of the Newport Casino Invitational tennis tournament started today, were indicated by the draw, which was seeded. The losers in today's Davis cup matches in Longwood between France and Australia, are entered for play here. The players here for the tournament included William M. Johnston and R. Norris Williams, 2nd, members of the United States Davis cup team; the Kinsey brothers of California, and William A. Larned, the veteran former national singles champion.

60 MILE MARATHON

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Sixty of Philadelphia's fastest distance runners today faced off picked 60 miles from New York in the sixty mile relay marathon from Camden, N. J., to the Atlantic City. Held under the auspices of the Atlantic City Athletic club, each team consisted of ten men and each man was to run approximately six miles. The race was said to be the first of its kind ever held in the United States and plans have been made to establish it as an annual event.

Pope Pius Suffers Slight Cold

ROME, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Pope Pius has suffered a slight cold, says the Messagero today, due to walking in the vatican garden, despite the terrific heat, and then re-entering his cool apartment. He suffered a severe attack of chills a few days ago, but now his health is restored. He has decided, however, to abandon his walks in the gardens while the heat is so intense.

Pardoned to Stand Trial for Murder

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Eastern Penitentiary officials expected to release Jesse Murphy, alias Frank Smith, today, so that he might be re-arrested and taken to Boston to face a murder charge. Another man had been convicted and was awaiting electrocution when Murphy, it is stated, confessed his responsibility for the homicide. It is the first instance in Pennsylvania history in which a man has been pardoned for a lesser offense to stand trial for murder. The pardon and requisition papers have been received from the governor's office.

D'Annunzio Seriously Injured

CARDONE RIVIERA, Italy, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italy's noted soldier-poet, was seriously injured in the head by a fall yesterday in the garden of his villa here. For some time following the accident, his condition gave rise to considerable anxiety. Medical reports today were more reassuring, but his doctors declined to express a definite opinion on his chances for recovery.

$7,000,000 Bond Oversubscribed

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—An issue of $7,000,000 first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds of the United States Rubber company, which was offered today by a syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Company, has been oversubscribed and the books closed. The bonds, which run for 25 years, were offered at 90 1/2 and accrued interest.

LADY ASTOR FACES STIFF BATTLE TO HOLD PARLIAMENT SEAT

LADY NANCY ASTOR

PLYMOUTH, August 14.—Dorcas is going to be one of the big factors in the fight Lady Nancy Astor faces—the greatest fight of her political life.

This daughter of Virginia, the first woman to sit in the British parliament, has returned from her triumphal tour of America to find various forces trying to dislodge her from the House of Commons, where she represents a Plymouth constituency. There will be a parliamentary election next year, or sooner if the premier decides it. And Lady Astor, sitting as a conservative, finds various conservatives—mainly pro-house—opposed to giving her the nomination because of her pronounced dry leanings.

Talking with people here, I found women voters strong for Lady Astor. Said one:

"We like her dry views and her advocacy of measures designed to protect women and children. We like her breezy democracy and her old-fashioned Christianity."

"She's U. S. Importation"

A politician put it this way: "She's an American importation and she's trying to force American prohibition on us."

Said a shopkeeper:

"Lady Astor has been an industrious member of parliament, but she is too much the friend of David George. We want somebody who will break from him if he doesn't stand for what the conservative majority want."

Said a saloonkeeper:

"Too much pushover—that's Lady Astor. Our people don't want anyone to interfere with their long-established habits. They want their beer."

An ex-soldier said:

"Oh, I suppose Lady Astor is all right for the ex-soldiers of the town, but she doesn't do anything for us fellows who come to Plymouth from other towns."

Her Position Strong

In spite of opposition, Lady Astor is popular and has strength. The great welcome home meeting at Plymouth on the fourth of July proved it. I saw that meeting and it was a great triumph for the American woman who, with her American descended husband—a viscount of the realm—supports every charitable, patriotic and uplift enterprise in Plymouth. She is going to have a stiff fight, but most observers believe she has more than an even chance to win re-election.

Pro-house conservatives are already trying to induce a prominent London physician to enter the lists against her.

There are two possibilities: either Lady Astor may win the regular conservative nomination again, and the disgruntled ones may put up an independent conservative candidate; or she may lose the nomination and herself run as an independent.

The liberal party will probably name no candidate but the labor party, which is rather strong, is sure to do so.

HELD OUTING AT WILLOW DALE

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Clan Grant held a very enjoyable outing Saturday at Mrs. John Buchanan's camp at Willow Dale. The members of the auxiliary attended in good numbers and all had a very pleasant day. A very interesting program of sporting events was run off with the following winners: Apple contest, Mrs. Greta Russell; fat ladies' race, Mrs. Catherine Kelley; children's race, Mrs. Francis Russell; married women's race, Mrs. Minnie Clark; sack race, Mrs. Minnie Clark; peanut contest, Mrs. Greta Russell; planning tall on donkey, Miss Marion Clark; jump rope contest, Miss Marion Clark. The prizes awarded were very suitable and were given through the kindness of Mrs. John Buchanan and Miss Janet Thompson.

A basket lunch was served later and at the conclusion a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Buchanan for her hospitality. Plans are under way for a trip to Andover next Tuesday night. The officers ask for a good attendance at the meeting on Tuesday night.

If You Know

—the technical condition of the general market, it is not so difficult to decide whether the main trend is up or down.

If you know what a particular company has been doing, is doing, and promises to do, you can form a pretty shrewd opinion as to whether its shares are likely to keep pace with the rest of the market or forge ahead.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Man Charged With Assault
With Knife Sentenced to
House of Correction

Although Mike Sokolowski pleaded guilty to drunkenness, he could not remember the circumstances surrounding his alleged assault and battery with a knife upon Joseph Yankowski, when called before Judge Enright in district court this morning, but the faces of the two men plainly showed that something in the nature of an assault had taken place very recently. The judge found Sokolowski guilty, on both charges, upon finding him to be the house of correction for six months on the more serious offense and fining him $10 for drunkenness. On appeal, he was held in $300 bonds for the assault, and $100 personal recognizance on the intoxication complaint.

Yankowski, once hostile about the assault, which took place at the corner of Central and Charles streets. He said that he lit a cigaret and as he was lowering his hands Mike cut him in the mouth with a knife. He turned quickly and received another cut under the right eye. Mike Sokolowski then took a checkbook with a bottle and took away the knife.

The defendant said that he was very drunk and struck Yankowski; that is all he remembers. He wore a large plaster on his left cheekbone, while the complainant was decorated with bandages on his upper lip, the lower lip and chin, and on the back of the neck under the right ear.

Nearney in Hospital

In the case of George Strobolokos, George Smernios and Peter Apostolos charged with assault and battery on Owen Nearney in the Plaza lunch car, Sunday morning, a continuation was taken until Friday, as the injured man is in the hospital in a serious condition. Nearney was released from the institution but a short time ago after a serious illness. Bonds were placed at $500 each.

Nearney is said to have been eating at a table in the lunch room when a foreigner passing his table made some insulting remark. Nearney jumped up and hit the man, and resumed eating. The man went out the back door, only to return afterward with his two companions who appeared with him today, all carrying clubs. They at once attacked Nearney, beating him on the head until a policeman intervened. Nearney was taken to St. John's hospital and the three men arrested.

WOULD RESUME OPERATIONS IN ANTHRACITE COAL FIELDS AT ONCE

Spokesman for Mine Owners Expresses Willingness to Resume Work at Old Wage Scale Pending Appointment of Commission to Investigate the Situation—Sends Message to Pres. Lewis

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company, and spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, announced today that he had notified John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, that the mine owners were willing to resume operations in the hard coal fields at the old wage scale pending the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation.

Mr. Warriner said he had telegraphed Mr. Lewis last night suggesting that a conference of anthracite operators and representatives of the miners be held in this city Wednesday.

Mr. Warriner's action followed a conference yesterday with United States Senator Pepper, Governor Sprague, W. J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, and William A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the United Mine Workers.

At this meeting, it became known today, Senator Pepper read a letter from President Harding in which the president declared that further delay in the resumption of mining would mean "danger of nothing short of nationwide disaster."

The president said that no time was to be lost in getting the men back in the mines and that if mining was resumed at once, "the future consequences of past delays must necessarily be serious. But if there is any further delay we shall be in danger of nothing short of nationwide disaster."

President Harding suggested that the operators take the men back at the wage scale in effect on March 31, 1922, when the suspension began.

FURTHER PARALYSIS OF RAIL TRANSPORTATION IN FAR WEST

Northern and Central California Without Freight Transportation East—Cities Without Mail Service—Fruit Growers Lose $1,000,000 a Day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press) Heads of railroad labor organizations, non-striking as well as striking had another conference today of several hours and at its close there were indications that the alliance as to the next step to be taken by labor in the strike might be broken within a few hours.

L. L. Sheppard, head of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. N. Donk, vice president of the brotherhood of trainmen, went to the department of labor, for the purpose, as they said, of "getting information."

The union leaders appeared to be disposed to consider mediation attempts toward settlement of the strike to be still in progress, although the railroad executives no longer are participating and have given to President Harding a response to his settlement proposal, which they hold in final.

Alfred F. Thom, counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, conferred with President Harding.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Further paralysis of rail transportation in the far west and at least two instances of serious violence against railroad property, marked the opening hours of the seventh week of the strike of rail shop crafts workers.

Northern and central California today were without fast freight transportation east, and indications were the sole remaining passenger route also would be abandoned. Upwards of 1700 passengers were marooned in 19 trains abandoned in Arizona, New Mexico and California deserts by members of the operating brotherhoods.

Many cities of California's San Joaquin valley were without mail service as a result of cessation of transportation, and eastern mail, halted in Southern California Thursday, still was unremoved.

Fruit growers estimated their economic loss at $1,000,000 a day.

READY CASE IN COURT

Ledge Engineer Fights Discharge From City Job By Supt. Doherty

In district court this afternoon, the case of Michael J. Ready, who contests his discharge as engineer at the city ledge on the grounds that it was illegal, unjust and unwarranted, was continued before Justice John J. Piekman.

Earlier in the year Mr. Ready was given a hearing before Supt. of Streets Harry P. Doherty and the board of public service, in joint session, and when the board sustained Mr. Doherty's ruling, Mr. Ready appealed and took the case to the court.

The case runs back to March 11, the date of the discharge, on which date it is alleged that a battle of words occurred between the present plaintiff and Supt. Doherty.

The first witness at this afternoon's session was Dennis J. Murphy, chairman of the public service board. (Continued to Page 10)

ANOTHER STRIKE ADDED TO LOCAL LIST

Another strike was added to four now in progress in the city this morning when approximately 200 men employed at the Columbia Textile company's plant in Market street refused to go to work following a notice, received last week, that a 20 per cent. reduction would go into effect today. The other mills in which strikes have been declared are the Hamilton, Bay State, Merrimack and Massachusetts.

80 CENTS LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Personal and Real Estate Valuations Increase Nearly Two Millions

Net City Levy and State Tax Considerably Lower Than in 1921

Lowell's tax rate for 1922 is $30.60 per thousand, a reduction of 80 cents from last year's rate of $31.40.

The rate was announced today by the board of assessors, at the end of three weeks of intensive work on the mass of figures assembled through assessments and other items that relate to it.

As announced in this paper last Saturday the total valuation of personal and real estate property in the city has advanced approximately $2,000,000 over last year's figures and has raised the grand total to slightly more than 130 and a half millions.

Coincident with the establishment and announcement of the rate, was the publication of a letter, written to the assessors by Mayor George H. Brown, stating that it now seems that the receipts for this year will be $30,000 or $35,000 less than the first estimate and recommending that the figure of $30,000 be used instead of $75,000, as previously recommended by him. If the first figure had been used in connection with the compilation of the rate, it would have been less than $30, for 10 cents is added this year for every $13,000 expended.

A number of things enter into the reduction of the rate this year from the 1921 peak. Most important and instrumental in making this decrease

LOWELL'S NEW AUDITORIUM TO BE OPENED AND DEDICATED SEPT. 21

Speakers Will Include Vice President Calvin Coolidge, Governor Cox, Major General Clarence R. Edwards and Congressman Rogers—Invocation by Cardinal O'Connell—Benediction by Bishop Lawrence

The Memorial Auditorium and Building Commission met early this afternoon and voted that the date for the opening and dedication of the auditorium be set for Thursday, Sept. 21, at 8 o'clock p. m.

The date was held open to suit the convenience of Vice President Coolidge who was governor at the time that the act creating the commission was passed and, having signed the act creating the commission, he evinced a great deal of interest in the enterprise and intimated at the time that, if possible, he would attend the dedicatory exercises.

Since then, Mr. Coolidge has been elevated to the high office of vice president of the United States, but remembering his connection with the auditorium, he sent word that as soon as he could arrange a date after the middle of September he would advise the chairman of the auditorium commission through Congressman Rogers. The latter, after interviews with Mr. Coolidge and his secretary, informed the chairman of the commission that Mr. Coolidge had set Thursday, the twenty-first day of September, as the date that would be convenient for him to come to Lowell and address the people here in connection with the opening of their beautiful auditorium.

The date having been fixed, the commission then prepared and approved the following:

- PROPOSED ORDER OF EXERCISES
- 1—Invocation by His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston.
 - 2—Hymn, "America," by the Audience and Lowell Choral Society.
 - 3—Address by His Excellency Calvin Coolidge, Vice President of the United States.
 - 4—Address by His Excellency Channing H. Cox, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
 - 5—The Hallelujah Chorus (from "The Messiah"), by the Lowell Choral Society.
 - 6—Address by Major General Clarence R. Edwards.
 - 7—Address by the Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Member of Congress.
 - 8—Presentation of the key of the Auditorium to the Mayor of the City of Lowell by Mr. John H. Harrington, Chairman of the Memorial Building Commission.
 - 9—Address of Acceptance by the Hon. George H. Brown, Mayor of the City of Lowell.
 - 10—Grand Chorus, "Achieved is the Glorious Work," (from "The Creation"), by the Lowell Choral Society.
 - 11—Benediction, by the Right Reverend William Lawrence, LL. D., Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts.
 - 12—"The Star Spangled Banner," by the Audience and Lowell Choral Society.

Nearly all of the above dignitaries have agreed to be present. The commissioners have the assurance that they can depend upon Gov. Cox, Major General Edwards has agreed to be present and so has Congressman John Jacob Rogers. Bishop Lawrence may find it impossible to attend because of a national conference of the Episcopal churches of the United States to be held in Portland, Oregon, about the middle of September, and which he will be obliged to attend. If Bishop Lawrence finds it impossible to come, Rev. Appleton Grants of St. Anne's church will be asked to pronounce the benediction. The commission has not yet been able to connect with Cardinal O'Connell, but has every hope that he may find it convenient to attend and open the exercises as a distinguished non of Lowell.

The organ builders are making every effort to have the organ completed at least far enough to provide accompaniments for the singing on that night, but if that is found to be impossible the Choral society will be instructed to provide an orchestra, the expense to be defrayed by the commission.

All the exterior work with the exception of brown street will be finished this week, the street work completed and the white way lights installed within the next fortnight.

The commission is at work now on details of the dedication which will be given to the public through the press at an early date.

SAYS GAS FATALITIES WERE ACCIDENTAL

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—James F. Connolly of 294 Chestnut ave., Jamaica Plain, two of whose children were killed by gas poisoning, said yesterday that he disagreed with a statement made by Medical Examiner Leary that the poisoning was probably a homicidal attempt by Mrs. Connolly. Mrs. Connolly and a nephew, James Hobbson, are in St. Elizabeth's hospital suffering from gas poisoning. Another child was overcome, but recovered. According to Mr. Connolly, Dr. Leary, Dr. Charles Malone, the family physician, and a police officer visited the Connolly home yesterday and witnessed a demonstration of the manner in which Mr. Connolly believes the poisoning took place. Mr. Connolly said last night that he showed the medical examiner how the gas came under the water heater could have been blown out by a draft when the kitchen door was shut or opened. The medical examiner will make no statement until he talks with Mrs. Connolly, according to the husband. Mr. Connolly has talked with both his wife and his nephew. He said his wife told him that she lighted the heater at 1 o'clock Saturday to prepare a bath for the children and that she could remember nothing after that time. The nephew said he was awakened by the cries of one of the dying children.

Adventures of the Twins

HOW DUCKBILL GOT JEALOUS

IT SWAM GRACEFULLY ABOUT, SPREADING ITS WINGS AND FOLDING THEM AGAIN PROMPTLY.

Mr. Waggletail Duckbill was out for a walk. He stopped every now and then to gobble up something to eat. Then he would go on again. Mr. Duckbill was feeling fine and very happy. He even hummed a little tune. "A frog he would a-wooing go, whether his Mammy would let him or no, umpty larum a diddle oh!" He stopped and ate a beetle. Then he went on and sang his song. "A frog he would a-wooing go," and so on. This time he stopped and ate a mosquito. He hummed another line and stopped to eat a white grub. He'd eaten a fuzzy worm, a bee, a rain-toad and a grasshopper when he spied a lovely white creature with a long neck away out on Lily pond. It swam gracefully about, spreading its wings and folding them again proudly. "H'm!" said Mr. Duckbill, looking awhile and then gazing thoughtfully at his own reflection in the water. "I wonder why I have such a short neck, and no wings to speak of." Then he went on with his walk and his song. By and by he saw a pony in a field waving his fine long tail about to chase the flies away. "H'm!" said Mr. Duckbill again. "What a fine tail! I wonder why I have such a nubby one!" He went on with his walk again and his song. "Goodness! What a fine pair of legs that bird has! That must be Mr. Crane. I wonder why I have such ugly, short legs!" This time he went on with his walk, but not his song. "How do you do this fine morning?" said Dr. Snuffles, passing by. "Rotten!" grumbled Mr. Duckbill. "I'm going home and go to bed!" Jealousy, my dears, is the worst disease there is. (To be continued.) (Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun.)

Radio Is Important Study in Course for Juvenile Woodsmen

JUVENILE WOODSMEN TESTING THEIR RADIO SET

(By N.E.A. Service)
CULVER, Ind., August 14.—Lads of today who play at being woodsmen have adopted radio and are learning the code for wireless communication. In the Culver school of woodcraft, where 350 boys of 10 to 14 are devoting their summer to the study of woodcraft and the lessons of field and stream, radio is an important feature. They have literally stamped their three instructors in their heads to keep them with them. When the baseball diamond is deserted and the swimming pool is quiet, a crowd can always be found around the radio shack, an old-time one-room log cabin squatting in the midst of the woodcrafters' tented camp. Or, toward evening, small groups of boys may be seen tuning up their own sets up beside their "pop tent".

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ANNUAL INSTITUTE.

East Northfield is the scene of the 76th annual institute of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor and the local members of the Northfield club left this morning shortly before 8 o'clock. The club consists of 45 members, with the following officers: President, Nathaniel Trull; and Secretary, Clara Chapman.

In years past the college has been held at Segunton where Father Endeavor Clark makes his home, but has been transferred to East Northfield, the scene of many religious gatherings. The speakers engaged for this occasion are the very best and the recreational side will also be very attractive.

Dr. Clark, the founder of the Endeavor society, will be the speaker on next Saturday night. On "stunt night" the Lowell club will present "Boothman and Captain John Smith." This year the Lowell people will have its own camera club under the direction of Cecilia Bartlett.

The members of this club are: Nathaniel W. Trull, Clara Chapman, Elsie Perren, Frank J. Spooner, Edwin Wells, Gertrude Stewart, Roy John Singleton, Mrs. Frank J. Spooner, M. and Mrs. Albert Caldwell, Ruth Logan, Albert Ryan, Jr., Walter Matthews, Wesley Singleton, Irene Potter, Harriet Perren, Myrtle Walker, Cecil Gardner, Dorothy Adams, Gertrude Howes, Hannah Linscott, Viola Howarth, Dorothy Morris, Bernice Pralace, Elizabeth

Five classes in the elementary principles of radio are held daily in the open air outside the radio shack. Woodcrafters learn the general service code of the Boy Scout manual and considerable technical matter. They get a good taste of the science in learning how to receive and send and in taking care of an outfit. As pupils advance they are scheduled for special instruction in the radio shack. There they get their hands on apparatus in actual operation and in contact with the biggest broadcasting stations in the land and overseas. Some progress until they are fitted to take the examination for an amateur's license.

The woodcraft station at Culver, Ind., is located on the campus of Culver Military academy, on the shores of Lake Maxinkuckee, in northern Indiana, and is one of five stations on the academy property.

OXFORD DEBATERS TO VISIT AMERICA

OXFORD, England, August 14.—Three representatives of the Oxford union, the great debating society of Oxford, will visit several American universities in September. Since the war, New York university and Bates college have sent debating teams to Oxford and the forthcoming tour will be Oxford's return visit. The visitors will be H. M. Lindsay, a former president of the union; J. M. Majoribanks and M. C. Hallie. Their itinerary includes the universities of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, New York and Bates and Swarthmore colleges.

Radio Pioneer. Skin Effect—Non-uniformity of current distribution in the cross-section of a conductor. This is apparent in aerial wire where the amplitude of the high-frequency current is large at the surface and decreases as it nears the axis of the wire. To reduce skin effect, antenna wire is often built up of two strands.

Long-Distance Phone Lines May Help Broadcast High-Class Concerts

BY PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority
The American radio audience has become critical.

No longer is it content with "canned" music. It wants the real thing. Having heard both good and poor programs, it now demands the best.

Broadcasting de luxe! This increased demand for the long-distance phone lines of the men behind the scenes at the broadcasting stations. They are on the counterpane more and more difficult in getting topnotchers for their programs.

At first they were able to secure them for the publicity of the thing. But now the demand has been so great that the artists have put a price on their services.

First-class artists must, of necessity, eat. And most of their expenses are high. So with no charge for their broadcasting services? It is therefore almost impossible for the numerous broadcasting stations to have a staff of first-class artists on tap at all times. The expense would be too great unless there were some way of passing the burden along to the public.

Centralization. Yet the demands are such that the broadcasting must be of the highest plane.

It would seem that a logical solution of this problem would be found in centering a strictly first class collection of entertainers at one big station, where a program could be so arranged as to have it of a high level continuously.

The program could be broadcast from any station in the land by interlocking land telephone lines. This could be done at comparatively small expense. The American Telephone and Telegraph company's system covers the whole country. It is now being used for long-distance toll broadcasting. The services of these stations are to be sold to those who want to advertise.

In Practice. Perhaps the manufacturers of a popular automatic tooth-brush will arrange to have John McCormack sing at 8 p. m., eastern standard time. John will put in his appearance at a radio station on Broadway at the scheduled time.

Meanwhile Havana, Atlanta, Norfolk, Albany, Wheeling, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and Portland have all been connected with the New York radio studio.

The brush manufacturer pays $50 a station. For 15 minutes John McCormack is allowed to sing. His voice is carried by wire to the foregoing cities and broadcast from there. Millions listen in and enjoy this first class entertainment.

Subsequent to his final selection, announcement is made that it has been possible to favor the public through the courtesy of the brush company. And purchasers of the colored brush will have borne the burden of McCormack's broadcasting offerings.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS IN MINING DISTRICTS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Optimism prevailed today in the mining districts for an early settlement of the anthracite dispute as the result of news that wage negotiations would be resumed in Philadelphia, probably Wednesday.

Hope that some settlement will be arrived at has been strengthened by the statement said to have come from John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the mine workers will withdraw their demands for an increase in wages.

A secret conference was held here yesterday by United States Senator Pepper, Governor Spruell, of Pennsylvania, Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company, and spokesmen for the operators; W. J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company, and William A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the United Mine Workers. At this conference steps were taken toward resumption of wage negotiations.

BROADWAY CLUB

The Broadway S. and A. Association held a regular meeting in its rooms yesterday afternoon. It was voted to take part in the dedicatory exercises to be held in connection with the opening of the new Corn Conley square. Corp. Conley was killed in active service during the world war. A committee of 50 was appointed to make arrangements for the event, which will be held on Sunday, October 1. It was also voted to hold a dance in the Casino in the building fund.

HOW DO YOU COMPARE WITH CARMEL?

(By N.E.A. Service)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., August 14.—Girls, compare your figure with that of Carmel de Smythe. California recognizes her as its most perfect specimen of womanhood. Here are her measurements—get out your tape measure and see how you stand:

Height 5 feet 5 1/2 inches
Weight 140 pounds
Neck 12 1/2 inches
Arm 12 1/2 inches
Forearm 10 inches
Chest 36 inches
Waist 26 inches
Hips 40 inches
Upper leg 23 inches
Lower leg 14 inches
Ankle 8 1/2 inches

Do you fall short of that standard? Well, don't worry, for Miss de Smythe says with a little care you can attain a figure as perfect as hers. "I wasn't born that way," she says. "Exercise gave me beauty of form."

"Not dry, uninteresting calisthenics or work in a gymnasium, though they're valuable, if you find any zest in them.

"But the exercise I found most valuable was on the beaches and in the mountains."

"Nothing can beat swimming. I had the advantage of nearness to the ocean, but that's not necessary. If you're miles inland, the river or lake will help you improve your figure."

"A close second to swimming in improving your form is mountain climbing. And you don't need mountains—if you live in a flat region, hike and put all the pep and vigor you've got into your stride."

"Or if you're an office girl, walk upstairs in the morning instead of taking the elevator."

Miss de Smythe was the winner in 1916 of the San Francisco exposition contest to find the most perfect feminine figure in California.

Since then she's won many other awards and her friends now claim for her the honor of being the most perfect girl in the west.

And she's willing to challenge any girl in the United States!

Horse Sense—Tom Mix's Steed Shows It

THIS HORSE LOOKS RATHER DISCONSOLATE. THAT'S BECAUSE TOM MIX'S OTHER HORSE, TONY, WAS STARRING IN "JUST TONY," LEAVING THIS ONE TO PLAY A SUBORDINATE ROLE

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—You will know just what is meant by "horse sense" if you see "Just Tony." Tom Mix's new photoplay. The burden of entertainment is put upon Mix's horse, Tony, and this lifts the film out of the usual run of western stuff done by Mix.

This horse Tony is a burnished black, a magnificent animal from poll to crop with a haughty head and eyes that have the look of an eagle. The very sight of him as he cavorts before the camera is thrilling drama, for he is thoroughly his own spirited self.

He is first shown as a leader of wild mountings on a mountain prairie. Later Mix saves him from a whip lashing by his captor. Upon a later beating the horse chews his rope in two, kills his tormentor and returns to the prairie.

Mix gets into difficulty with the villains. The horse rescues him and the beautiful heroine. Later Mix traps the horse. The horse succeeds in getting away but returns to befriend the man who had protected him.

In the end Mix and the heroine lead the horse to the edge of the prairie to release him as a reward for his services in unifying them and in founding the villains. The horse starts to leave them but returns and puts his head upon Mix's shoulder.

All of this is as though the horse acted without prompting. That gives the scene its dramatic force. It makes a more effective fade-out than a hundred embraces of hero and heroine.

Form is lacking in "Just Tony." From the standpoint of construction it is a poor photoplay. But every minute that the horse is in the film he holds the eye and commands admiration.

The chief function of the photoplay or of any form of entertainment is to occupy the attention of the spectator. When that is accomplished there is little need of quibbling over form or technicalities.

Many stories are sent out from movie studios about the hobbies of stars. Such stories usually include horseback riding as one of the favorite sports of the feminine stars.

Yet few pictures ever show any of them able to keep their saddles. I have never seen such a story about Claire Adams. She rides a horse better than any other stage actress of the screen.

There is no doubting that after seeing her in "When Romance Rides" and "Just Tony."

"The Movie Chatterbox"

Louis B. Mayer has purchased film rights to "The Middleman," by Henry Arthur Jones.

Chaplin took 20 weeks to make his latest comedy.

Buster Keaton's father and mother appear with him as his screen parents in "The Electric House." Five years ago they were all together on the stage as "The Three Keatons."

Joe Kirkwood, Australian golf champion, demonstrates different strokes in the next Pathé Review. In one instance he uses a gold watch as a tee without the slightest damage to it.

News reels hereafter will not be censored by the state board before their release in Virginia.

Baby Peggy's new comedy is called "The Kid Reporter."

Lowell's New Police Patrol and Motorcycle Squad

With the purchase this year of a new patrol of the Rex Speed wagon type, seven Harley-Davidson motorcycles with side cars and a new Chandler 7-passenger touring car, the Lowell police department placed its motive equipment on a particularly high plane.

The machines formerly used by the motorcycle squad were in part payment for the new ones and an old 1916 Buick figured in the Chandler purchase.

During the past few years the motorcycle squad has become a vital part of the police department and particularly in the summer months does the squad give invaluable service. Naturally, it is a roving squad, although each driver has a specified section of the city to cover.

Only recently the members of the squad, as well as the department chauffeurs were outfitted in new, olive drab uniforms of strictly military cut, with visored caps to match. Leather puttees and Sam Brown belts complete the outfit.

No department anywhere has a snappier looking equal than the local motorcycle officers, wearing the present uniforms. They are "all set" for instantaneous action and if they wait

"PODGE" MURPHY SAVED

Lowell Swimmer Picked up Unconscious Half Mile From Boston Light

QUINCY, Aug. 14.—A man who gave his name as Frank Murphy of 62 Central street, Lowell, was picked out of the water a mile from Boston Light yesterday afternoon by four fishermen from Houghs Neck. The man was nearly unconscious and was well-nigh exhausted when the fishermen found him. They brought him to the public landing at Houghs Neck and called Paulman Edward Curtin.

The man had recovered his senses by this time but was clad only in a swimming suit marked "Life Guard" and he was shivering with the cold. Officer Curtin sent a call to police headquarters and the auto patrol wagon, filled with blankets, was sent to Houghs Neck.

Murphy was wrapped up in blankets and was brought to police headquarters and put in a cell to sleep. He said he left East Boston yesterday morning on a fishing party in charge of John J. Bray of 240 Saratoga street. Murphy said the bathing suit he had on belonged to Bray, who, he claimed, was a life-guard at Revere beach. Murphy used to be a voluntary life-guard at the same beach and is well known there.

Murphy said that when off Long Island he put on the bathing suit and jumped overboard, intending to swim to Boston Light. After he had been in the water for five hours he began to feel chilled and exhausted when another motor boat came alongside and asked if he needed help. He said no and was asked if he would care for a drink. He took the drink for stimulant, he said, and became unconscious shortly afterward. How he was picked up in the Houghs Neck boat he did not remember nor could he explain why the motor boat started for him in the first place. He said the last he saw of the boat in which he stilled from East Boston was off Boston Light, where it anchored for fishing.

Murphy said he left his clothes aboard the motorboat, and friends came here last night with his wearing apparel. Murphy, for an elderly man, was in perfect physical condition and gave every indication of being in the water and out under the sun constantly. He was brown as a berry and seemed very much surprised that he was in Quincy. He expressed the opinion that a swim from Long Island Head to police headquarters, Quincy, by the way of Boston Light was some stunt.

company at work time this morning and after a conference, a committee consisting of Messrs. Foster, Calary, Hamilton and Makratkas called upon Percy Gulline, owner of the plant. According to members of the strike committee, Mr. Gulline told them they would have to accept the wage and judgment or the mill would have to close, as competition from other mills was making his establishment a losing proposition.

The committee returned to the work outside the gate and reported the interview after which the group went to Trades and Labor council hall in Central street where a mass meeting was held. The speakers at the meeting were Messrs. Archibald, Foster, Calary and John Hanley, of the Textile Workers of America. The speakers at the Columbia plant do not belong to unions but took steps this morning towards an organization. It is expected at tomorrow's meeting a permanent organization will be formed and steps made to apply for a charter from the United Textile Workers of America. Mr. Hanley explained the steps necessary for the formation of a union.

ATTY. GEN. ALLEN ACTS

To Present Evidence Involving Violations of Banking Laws to Grand Jury

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Attorney General J. Weston Allen proposes to present to a special session of the Suffolk County grand jury evidence involving alleged violations of the banking laws by officers of some of the banking institutions which have been closed by Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen. It was announced today. Authority to call the session on August 28, was arranged by Chief Justice Walter P. Hall, of the superior court.

The attorney general, in a letter to Chief Justice Hall, made public today, said that the bank commissioner had said that "in his opinion, the officers of some of the banks of which he took possession, had violated the banking and other laws of the state."

Mr. Allen said that as a result no proposed to present to the grand jury evidence against such persons as appear to be guilty of violations.

"The matters are lengthy and complicated," the letter continued, "and will require considerable time to present." Several other cases are also to be considered, Mr. Allen said.

all the delegates went to the Italian embassy for luncheon. When asked whether the conference had broken up, Sir Edward Greig, Mr. Lloyd George's secretary, replied: "I am not sure."

Sir Edward declined to say what happened at today's meeting but promised to meet the newspaper correspondents at 6 o'clock this evening.

There was no session this afternoon, but the British cabinet planned to meet to see if some means could be found to save the conference and to reach a common ground on which to renew the discussions.

After adjournment of today's session, several members of the various secretariats exchanged what appeared to be farewells.

It was understood this afternoon that the Belgian and Italian delegates were strenuously endeavoring to bring about a reopening of the conference. All members of the British cabinet who are now in London attended this afternoon's meeting which was called at 3.30 o'clock.

Although this morning's session of the allied premiers was adjourned without their having reached an agreement on the German reparations question or having arranged for another meeting, the conference was not broken up before four o'clock this afternoon that a plenary session would be held at five o'clock.

The Central News correspondent said he understood that the five o'clock meeting was called to discuss the question of Austria. It is understood that a promise had been given Austria that the conference would not break up before her financial position had been considered.

To Postpone Payment.

PARIS, August 14. (By the Associated Press).—The reparations committee this morning decided to postpone the August 15th payment of 50,000,000 gold marks by Germany until a decision has been reached by the allied premiers, meeting in London. This action was taken by the commission in view of the fact that Germany was promised a decision regarding a moratorium period, which was apparently impossible unless it should be reached by the allied premiers at a late hour.

The decision to leave in suspense the August payment was unanimously taken after the members of the commission had been instructed by their respective governments. It was said the London meeting failed to decide on a moratorium.

The impression in commission circles, however, was that the premiers would grant a short moratorium, even though they did not reach a complete understanding, and this reprieve could continue until another meeting had arrived at a comprehensive settlement.

Sharp Break in Exchanges

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Announcement that the meeting of allied premiers in London adjourned today without reaching an agreement on the German reparations question caused a sharp break in continental exchange rates. French francs opened at 8.13 cents, off six points from Saturday's close and then dropped to 8.04. German marks sold down to 12.14 cents a hundred, which is 1 1/2 cents below Saturday's rate. Demand sterling held firm, but most of the other European rates were reactionary.

TARIFF BILL STILL

BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The senate started today upon its last week of wrestling with the administration tariff bill, an agreement having been made for a final vote next Saturday.

After senate action, the bill will be sent to conference where representatives of the house and senate will undertake to reach an agreement on the more than 2000 senate amendments. The question of American valuation is the biggest issue before the conference, but senate leaders believe the house will accept the senate's plan of assessing ad valorem duties on the foreign valuation with authority for the president to increase or decrease rates to meet changing conditions.

possible is a saving in the city levy, of approximately, of $38,112.66. Also, $5320 was cut off the state tax this year and $7830 was saved on the grade crossing tax.

Two taxes, state bonus for Veterans and street railway, which together amounted to more than $18,000 in 1921, do not figure at all this year, which meant another saving. The total amount saved through these reductions was $65,243.96. The county and state highway taxes were greater this year, however, and a new tax showed up, called auditing municipal accounts. Combined they totaled $27,126.53. Subtracted from $65,243.96, there was a net saving of $38,112.43 up to the overlay.

A gain of $50,595 was made in personal property valuation and $155,473 in real estate, for a total of $1,978,170. The real estate gain was divided as follows: Land, $91,625; buildings, $1,386,545.

The grand total of property valuation, personal and real, and amounting to $1,340,538.19, is divided: Personal, $34,317.718; real estate $96,268,475.

The total charges for last year were $4,552,223.23 against $4,057,747.50 this year.

The levy, itemized, from which the rate was established, is as follows:

|----------------------------------|----------------|
| Net appropriations..... | $3,620,415.83 |
| Income tax deducted..... | 87,465.35 |
| Net city levy..... | 3,532,950.50 |
| State tax..... | 230,159.00 |
| State highway tax..... | 8,008.21 |
| Grade crossing tax..... | 2,051.11 |
| Auditing municipal accounts..... | 1,595.55 |
| County tax..... | 184,319.43 |
| Total up to overlay..... | $4,014,115.80 |
| Overlay..... | 45,631.70 |
| Grand total tax..... | $4,059,747.50 |

There were 30,905 assessed poll tax this year, against 31,273 last year. Payments in 1921, but this does not mean that the number of poll assessments are less in 1922, for although more than 31,000 were paid last year, only 27,774 were assessed, the difference being made up by ex-service men, who were assessed this year for the first time, although they are eligible to receive a $5 abatement.

FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD

BY BERTHA E. SHAPPEIGH
Cooking Authority for N.E.A. Service
During the summer fresh vegetables should be eaten every day. Sometimes they taste better cold. And what is more attractive than a pleasing arrangement of bright-colored vegetables with a little green lettuce or romaine or some salad plant and a good salad dressing?

Just a few things are well to avoid for instance, a combination of beef and tomato, or carrots and tomatoes. Try the following:

- 1 cup cooked green string beans, cut in pieces,
- 1 cup cooked carrots, cut in cubes or strips,
- 1 cup potatoes, cut in cubes,
- 1 cup cauliflower, only sliced,
- 1 cup shaved raw cabbage,
- 1 head lettuce,
- 1/2 cup French dressing,
- 1 hard cooked egg.

It is well to serve such a salad arranging each vegetable by itself. Then if there is any one which some members of the family does not like, that vegetable can be avoided.

Chop the egg and add to the French dressing. Either put a slice or two of onion in the salad itself or chop it finely and add to the dressing.

If possible, arrange these vegetables on a platter. Place first the lettuce, then the cabbage, on this arrange the pieces of vegetables and over all pour the dressing.

Sloop Captured Off Manchester-by-the-Sea After Hot Pursuit Today

Launch With 28 Cases of Choice Liquors, Bound From Sloop, Seized

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—The sloop Hawk was captured on the summer colony here early today after 16 shots had been fired by Chief of Police William Sullivan and officers engaged in breaking up a rum-running expedition. A launch with 28 cases of choice liquors, bound from the sloop, was intercepted and seized. Many additional cases of liquor were thrown overboard from the sloop during the five mile pursuit, the officers said.

Chief Sullivan arrested Harry Louder, of Rockland, Me., said to be the skipper of the vessel during her trip from St. Pierre, where the liquor was taken aboard, and two Gloucester men. In court at Salem later Louder and William Mousse were held in bonds of $2000 each for a hearing Monday on charges of illegal selling of liquor and of keeping it for sale. Joseph C. Mitchell, John Smith, Carl Harding and Howard Harding were held in bonds of $1000 each.

Head 128 Cases of Liquor

Concealed in bushes on the beach between Manchester and Magnolia early this morning, as a result of a tip received last night, the officers observed a launch putting off from a sloop that had been anchored outside. The launch was found on the beach, the officers set out for the sloop in a motor boat. It was a long chase, punctuated by frequent shots from revolvers fired by the officers at men seen to be throwing liquor overboard.

When the sloop was boarded she was practically empty of cargo, but an examination of her papers showed she had sailed from St. Pierre with 128 cases of liquor. A check for several hundred dollars, signed by a prominent resident of the summer colony on the North shore, was also found on one of the men.

LAKEHURST, N. J., MAN

SHOT BY BURGLARS

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 14.—William Giberson, former saw mill operator, was shot and killed by two burglars who entered his home here early today.

Mrs. Giberson, who had been ill and was awake, said she heard a noise, went into the kitchen, lit a match, and then one of the intruders brandished a revolver and gagged her. She went into the bedroom, and she heard a shot.

"I heard one of the men ask 'Why did you shoot him?' and the other replied 'He was waking up,'" she said. Then the burglars fled, taking $300 with them.

Mrs. Giberson rolled down the stairs, got the gag from her mouth and screamed for help.

VICTIMS OF EXPLOSIONS

ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Aug. 14.—All of the passengers rushed to the North Hudson hospital last night when three explosions burst a local train on the West Shore railroad as it approached the yards a mile west of the Weehawken terminal, were able to go to their homes today. Most of them had been cut by flying glass hurled through the cars when the explosions broke window panes.

State and local police, who, with railroad detectives, carried on an all-night investigation, said the most damaging explosion occurred beneath the third car of the train, which had five cars, all packed with passengers returning home from Sunday outings. A tie was blown from the roadbed up through the floor of the car.

cruing losses at a million dollars a day and one shipper professed his loss reached $500,000 daily.

President Harding's proffer of unstinting aid for passengers suffering on trains stalled in the humid Arizona wastes met ready response as Governor Thomas E. Campbell, immediately upon receipt of the president's telegram, sent Colonel Walker S. Ingalls, assistant general, to Seligman, with orders to report "at the earliest possible moment."

Reports of instances of personal violence to non-union workers who have replaced the men who went on strike showed the usual Sabbathical infrequency, but for the first time, attacks of magnitude were made against railroad property.

New Jersey Train Bombed

Lives of passengers were endangered and persons were injured when a passenger train loaded principally with week-end excursionists was bombed at Grafton Junction, N. J. Steel coaches, which were marked visibly by the explosions served as vortices of fire in protecting the passengers.

At Ash Grove, Mo., the St. Louis & San Francisco's 400 foot bridge over the Sacramento river, was dynamited. Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railways shops at Wichita Falls, Texas. Three locomotives, numerous coaches and box cars were lost.

Trinamian who tied up traffic on the St. Louis & San Francisco out of Birmingham, Ala., and on the Gulf Coast, officials announced immediate resumption of train service. Mails which were delayed were re-routed over other lines.

NEXT MOVE UP TO UNION CHIEFS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The railroad executives had submitted their conditional acceptance to President Harding and departed, and with the government outwardly marking time, without having indicated whether it would attempt further compromise developments today in the rail strike. President Harding's policy was to let the union organizations, which still have before them the proposal of the president that the railroad labor board be permitted to settle the question of seniority, the principal remaining bone of contention in the dispute.

In many quarters it was believed the real key to the situation was held by the four rail brotherhoods and that the attitude of their officials and the extent of their support would determine in a large measure the action of the striking crafts. Though it had been said the striking shopmen's chiefs had prepared a statement rejecting the president's proposals, the fact that this statement had been withheld from publication up to the time the conference of the union leaders assembled this morning, was taken as an indication there still was a possibility they might reconsider.

There also was seen a possibility that no decision would be forthcoming for a day or so. In this connection some significance was attached to the statement of J. B. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, last night that the four brotherhoods' chairman would continue to act as a committee of mediation "until congress gets back into session."

The executive answer to President Harding was submitted by T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, who, with others of the committee representing the executives, was in a long Sunday conference with the president. In a statement later, Mr. Cuyler said the executives at their meeting in New York Friday had "with practical unanimity" rendered favorably to the president's call.

Approximately three-quarters of the mileage represented, Mr. Cuyler said, voted favorably for a resolution providing that all striking shopmen be re-employed while the remainder desired that the strikers be re-employed "as far as practicable."

The chief condition upon which the majority voted acceptance as shown in his statement, was that "such acceptance involves no surrender of the principles with respect to seniority adopted by the carriers Aug. 1, 1922."

When the executives left the impression prevailed among them that the strike would be fought out to a finish and that the government would not attempt further effort at compromise. Union leaders, however, said mediation and compromise efforts would be continued. There was no statement from White House or administration sources.

R. R. Executives' Statement

The following statement was issued by T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives:

"At the meeting of the railroads in New York on Friday, Aug. 11, 1922, they, with practical unanimity, rendered favorably to the president's call that the seniority question be left to the United States railroad labor board."

"Approximately three quarters of the mileage responded favorably to his call that all striking shop craftsmen be re-employed and a majority of all such strikers be reemployed as far as practicable."

"The resolutions acted on by the meeting have been submitted to the president."

The following resolutions were adopted by roads having a mileage of 151,824 miles:

"The telegram of the president dated Aug. 7, 1922, having been considered and in response to his call to the carriers and the striking workmen, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, that the proposal for the return of the striking workmen to work and the carriers to assign them to work, leaving the disputed question of seniority to the labor board under the provisions of the Transportation act for decision be accepted, understanding as we do that such acceptance involves no surrender of the principle of seniority as adopted by the carriers Aug. 1, 1922, but recognizes that the proposal of the president invokes the jurisdiction of the labor board under the transportation act to pass upon the relative seniority of those loyal employees who have remained at work and those new employees who have accepted service (the rights of both of which classes to seniority we feel bound in justice to defend before the labor board) with the strikers who may enter the service under the proposal of the president."

"Therefore, be it further resolved: (A)—All former employees who have not voluntarily accepted service against the employees or property of the railroad shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist."

"(B)—Where the positions they formerly held have been filled their employment of the same class will be found for such employees as have com-

STOLEN FURS WORTH $30,000 RECOVERED

TO END STRIKE

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Fifteen minutes after M. Sussman, a furrier, had told the police that furs valued at $30,000 had been stolen from his place of business some time between Saturday night and this morning, a steward in a nearby cafe reported that he had his establishment. The furs proved to be the property of Sussman.

Investigation by the police disclosed that the robbers had gained entrance to the fur store by cutting a hole through the ceiling, departing by the way of the roof and the restaurant. The police said that the robbers were frightened in the cafe and left the foot. All the missing furs were recovered.

mitted no acts of proven violence of the railroad employees or the property of the railroad.

"(C)—If, after these men have been assigned, questions of seniority arise with them which cannot be settled locally, they will be referred to the United States railroad labor board for review."

"Further resolved, that the strike is to be called off with the understanding and agreement by all parties that no intimidations, nor oppressions shall be practiced or permitted as against any of the employees who have remained or have taken service, or against those who may return to service under the proposal of the president."

"The following minority report was supported by roads having a mileage of 57,222 miles:

"Resolved, that the chairman be authorized to reply to the president's telegram of Aug. 7 that the railroads represented at this meeting are willing that:

"(A)—All former employees who have not been guilty of violence against the employees or the property of the railroads shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist."

"(B)—If, after these men have been assigned, questions of seniority arise which cannot be settled locally they shall be referred to the United States railroad labor board for review."

"(C)—In agreeing to submit questions of seniority as provided above to the United States railroad labor board for review, it is understood that neither the railroads nor the employees shall be deprived of the right to review by the courts of such decisions if they affect agreements in existence between any railroad and its employees."

The men were picked out of the water by a lighter and do not remember the name of the tanker.

LAWRENCE COUNCIL ACTS

TO END STRIKE

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 14.—The city council has invited the four textile unions interested in the local textile strike to send representatives to a special meeting on Wednesday morning. At that time the possibilities of settling the strike will be considered and plans made for a mass meeting on common next Sunday afternoon when an effort will be made to determine the responsibility of the strike.

Organizer Francis J. Gorman announced today that employees of the Acaula mill have been told that unless those on strike return to work tomorrow their industrial life insurance, which is carried by the mill in favor of its employees, will lapse.

BATHING POOL IS WELL PATRONIZED

So far this year the municipal bathing pool in the Merrimack river has been given greater patronage than ever before. The park department's revenue may not bulk as large as in other years, for the reason that more persons now are going to the pool, equipped with their own bathing clothes, but the fact remains that the pool is attracting more men, women and children than in any summer since it was opened.

Whatever figures on attendance the park department may have, are based entirely upon the number of towels and seat covers it has paid for. Such a total would not be far below the actual number of people who are using the pool as a recreation spot.

Last Saturday the wading pool on the South common was cleaned out by men of the park department and it is in first class condition for children.

TEN KILLED IN WRECK

ANNANDALE, Minn., August 14.—Ten persons dead and more than two score injured was the toll last night of the wreck on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway here, late yesterday, when a west-bound passenger train crashed into a freight train standing on a sidetrack.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The International Monumental Granite Producers' association, meeting in annual session here today, announced that more than 2000 men were now employed under the open shop plan in New England granite quarries which were unionized prior to April 1.

Producers from several granite centers in the west and south presented resolutions supporting the New England members of the association. In their efforts to establish the open shop, James M. Beaulieu, of Montpelier, Vt., chairman of the producers' board of control, reported that the success of the open shop in New England had been greater than had been anticipated.

A VALIANT CRUSADER

Another notable and valiant leader of Irish freedom has been removed by the Silent Reaper from the front ranks of a dramatic struggle. It would be hard to find in modern political history a more determined, difficult and at times dramatic fight for an ideal than the life-long struggle of Arthur Griffith against great odds for his conception of a self-ruled Ireland.

Irish political creeds have risen and waned and plans and even laws for Irish government reform have come and gone in the last decade or more of Anglo-Irish bickering, yet through it all the "Father of Sinn Féin" stuck to his elemental theories. And yet the day was not so long ago when Griffith was ridiculed in the Irish press and howled down on the Irish political platform.

President of the Irish Free State, Griffith was one of the founders of the Sinn Féin movement and among the foremost leaders directing its activities. His exact age was unknown, but he was between 45 and 50 years of age. Little known in Irish public life until after his return in the late '90s from South Africa, he began as a miner in the Rand. His talent for writing drew him into journalism, and he became editor of the United Irishman, a journal founded expressly to revive the doctrine of independence for Ireland. He worked like the proverbial Trojan writing practically all the publication himself.

The Irish revival movement was shaping every day more and more clearly, and Griffith became acquainted in his capacity as editor with many of the men and women who at that time began to emerge into the literary and intellectual vanguard of awakening Ireland. William Butler Yeats became his friend and editorial contributor. George W. Russell, one of the most acquiescent of Irish poets, next joined forces with Griffith. He was a practical economist and a great student of Irish agriculture.

In the same company of heroic souls were James Stephens, whose delicate prose has won him many a friend and appreciative reader; Padric Colum, Senator Bulfin, Mary Butler, T. O'Neelan and a galaxy of other talented Irish people, including Founder Deane, who was the inventor of an instrument to help the blind.

The adventures of Arthur Griffith since that time are well known to many readers of The Sun. He was regarded in Ireland as a pillar of strength as well as in England, where his talents were soon recognized. He knew what was going on in every chancellory of Europe, while the economic questions between England and Ireland were his especial field. It was he more than anyone else who saved Irish nationality during the days that followed Parnell. He gave morale to a people who were beginning to feel their strength in parliamentary agitation after the scourge of the famine of 1846-47. He preached preparedness, gave the people "passive resistance" and formulated the demand for self-determination and called it "Sinn Féin." It was he who paved the way for the uprising of 1916, and it was his doctrines that formed the basis of the republican philosophy.

It can safely be said that no Irishman of today had a more intimate, copious and accurate knowledge of Irish history and politics than Arthur Griffith, who spent weeks at a time before the war pouring over newspaper files in the national library in Dublin. Americans know, too, that the distinguished Irishman who has taken the long trail home to his heroic fathers, was also little short of an expert in American history.

Griffith was a "Dublin man," loving his city as Pericles loved the city of the Violet Crown. Every yard of Dublin he knew—a completely urban man. If you will, and that made him remarkably among Irish workers and thinkers. The departed Irish leader has been somewhat out of the limelight of late, during the recent military activities, which have been largely directed on behalf of the Free State forces by Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government, set up under the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

The death of Arthur Griffith, coming with such startling suddenness, marks the passing of one of the far-most figures in modern Ireland.

THE WOOLEN MARKETS

Announcement has just been made that the annual two week vacation for employees of the American Woollen company in the town of Maynard will be cancelled because of new business requiring these mills, of enormous capacity, to be run indefinitely. This is good news to employers of these mills, although they are to lose their annual vacations. Wages are maintained steadily at the schedules prevailing in the woollen mills all over New England, and a more "contented town" than Maynard would be hard to find at this time of industrial troubles almost everywhere.

The woollen mills, however, are putting out a product in evident great demand at the present time, and much new business is coming right along in a way that must please the big mill owners. The American Woollen company's showings for next spring really sprang another surprise on the trade. Prices named on the women's wear fabrics last Monday and on the balance of the lines of men's wear semi-staples and fancy worsteds which were shown, were again below the estimate of the trade. Prices on the best selling or "repeat" numbers in women's wear fabrics were from 1 1/2 to 5 per cent lower than the prices prevailing at the last spring opening, despite the fact that raw wool quotations have jumped more than 100 per cent in the last year. Velvets and tricotines were the lowest for any spring opening in the American company's history.

The trend of prices named on men's wear fabrics was also unmistakably downward, three-quarters of the lines opening being priced below $2.50 a yard, whereas at the last spring opening only one-quarter of the lines were priced below this figure.

Business in most of the woollen lines is reported as brisk. Already certain of the lines for both men's and women's wear have been withdrawn from sale by the company.

Naturally the cotton mill operators are watching the movements of the woollen trades with interest, as they have been doing for the past 24 months more than they ever have before. The truth is generally known that the cotton markets are not showing much life at present. Just when the real boom is to start cannot be foretold. It is well to know, nevertheless, that one branch of the great cloth industry of the country is booming along with more work and even better times in sight for 1923.

THE CLOTH MARKETS

Markets in the cotton manufacturing industry have been "flat" the past week, the excitement over the government crop forecast having furnished the sole interest of the week. The report has caused wide fluctuations in all markets, and to a considerable extent is traceable to the actual deadness of trade.

The national industrial outlook continues to be disturbing, and the strikes have interfered directly with the output of numerous mills. The south promises to forward cotton to the north mills by water if the rail strike becomes worse. But the causes of the present stagnation in the cotton mills are chiefly within the industry itself. Jobbers claim to have over-bought. For instance, to show the short demand for print cloth at the present time, Fall River sales, estimated at 90,000 pieces, were the lowest of the last several months. Buyers are reported there as indifferent. The sentiment in the general market, however, is reported as good and the mills are optimistic over the prospects of recovery. Flax goods are quiet and prices unchanged.

Little significance is attached in cotton mills circles here to the settlement of the strike of textile operatives in Newmarket, N. H. The labor groups regard the terms as a victory, of course, but because the agreement will affect only the silk workers, it is rather irrelevant to the cotton situation. Newmarket is also without much weight in the textile field of New England.

THE BARLEYCORN POLL

According to a weekly magazine's nation-wide poll to obtain the sentiment of the people of this country on the Volstead law and the question of modifying the 18th amendment to permit the legalized sale of light wines and beer, the "drys" are running a neck and neck race with the "wets" and the "molds" voters. More than 250,000 men and women favor modification of the law, according to the votes tabulated to date.

Among factory workers, sentiment is strongly in favor of modification, with that for repeal running a fairly close second and the vote for enforcement almost negligible. Three representative factories reported—for enforcement 472, for modification 2779, for repeal 1927.

These factories as a basis indicate among workers a sentiment of approximately 16 to 1 in favor of tempering the present dry law.

Massachusetts, like New England, is on record as favoring modification, with strict enforcement second and absolute repeal third. Maine, the original prohibition state—is the only one of the New England group who sentiment for strict enforcement outstrips that for modification.

HELPING HUMANITY

Lowell citizens are pretty familiar with the permanent character of much of the work performed for the benefit of local deserving humanity by the Salvation Army. The latest statistics from the national organization are really remarkable reading.

The figures show more than 85,560 converts to Christianity in the past year's while activities. Christmas dinners were given to 293,000 poor families, 27 hotels for men, two for women, and eleven boarding-houses for young women are maintained. Eighty-eight industrial homes supplied meals to 1,711,000 persons and six children's homes have provided 531,000 meals. The Army aided more than 9,000 discharged prisoners, finding jobs for many of them.

When distributing charity to the deserving through your usual channels, don't overlook the Salvation Army and its splendid work among the lowly and the unfortunate. The Army's books are well up open and all may find out where the charity goes if one wants to make the effort to find out. The remarkable feature of the last year's report is the rapidity with which the work of extending succor to the unfortunate is handled in the heavily settled sections of the U. S. A.

HIDES ON FREE LIST

Hides, skins and shoes and leather were voted back to the tariff free list last week by the senate, which thus consented in action taken by the house more than a year ago. There was but one roll call on hides and the result was 25 to 22 against the committee rates of two cents a pound on green or pickled hides and six cents on dried hides.

Most of the "Ugla" lines that have divided the senate up to the time the vote on hides and leather was taken, disappeared on this vote, and about the only surprise was that a majority of the republicans voted against making hides dutiable. Here we saw Senators Walsh and Lodge standing metaphorically side by side for free hides, boots and shoes.

The action of the senate is expected to result in more business to the leather or industries of America from now on. With the quibbles and wrangling settled so far as the tariff is concerned, we must expect business of many kinds in leather products to develop and increase to the benefit of the people as a whole.

ASPHALT PAVING

People will view with no little satisfaction the prompt action of the board of public service in awarding a contract to one of the largest and best known construction engineering companies in New England for furnishing asphalt paving for several of our streets. Particularly, the good folks of Pawtucketville should have cause to rejoice, for the contract means that the much abused section of Mammoth road between Fourth and Eighth avenues, or to the end of the car line, will be resurfaced.

If no asphalt had been laid this year, the splendid program outlined would have been seriously disfigured, but with some asphalt now assured, the summer of 1922 ought to show more progressive street work accomplished than any previous season over a long span of years.

Despite the mayor's assertions that the job of laying Allestree paving in Westford street will cost anywhere from $6 to $10 per square yard, it is said that itemized statements, covering the actual cost of materials and labor, will be presented to the board of public service at a meeting to be held within a day or two and will show the cost below $4. It may be slightly in excess of what asphalt would have cost, but the need was great enough to compensate for the extra expense. At least, one of the worst and most disgraceful stretches of main highway in the city finally has been properly fixed.

Secretary Hughes' visit to Brazil may prove historical. No doubt the Brazilians will lay their cards on the table face up, as usual. Let us hope the American mission will materially aid in further cementing the warm and friendly relations of the two great republics. Brazil today is rapidly growing in wealth, population and international influence. It is a country of true modernity, courage and high energy. Friendly relations from now on must be maintained if the United States is to retain Brazil as a faithful ally in the years to come.

We have no doubt if Grover Cleveland were alive today, he would swing fully to the nearest golf links for a vacation tramp over the fairways, but if Thomas Jefferson happened to be in the offing, the chances would be more favorable for a fishing trip with plenty of good bait.

Good news comes along with the gist of other stuff that mankind digests daily at the breakfast and supper tables. For instance, citronella is 20 per cent cheaper than it was a year ago and mosquitoes are more prevalent. Will there be a citronella trust next year do you think?

Harding's "final call" for immediate settlement of the rail strike, sounds familiar, somehow. With the labor chiefs unwilling to surrender on seniority clauses and other important clauses figuring in the dispute, the Harding plan with its latest provisions will probably not work out just yet.

Mobilizing the national guards may be O. K. in times of certain trouble, but down in some sections of the coal mining regions it looks as if it would be a mighty good plan to mobilize a few federal auditors and round up some of those operators' profit accounts.

Crowded steamship piers in New York harbor when the big transatlantic start for European ports, demonstrate at least one helpful method of solving the foreign economic problem. American dollars are thrice welcome "ever there" just now.

As the old globe wings its way onward, folks realize that about the time those four-payment income tax returns are on their way to the proper havens, another year's tax has accrued and is making its usual noisy demands.

General Crowder appears to be the real boss down in Cuba after all. Cuba, you know, is really a financial dependent of ours, and Crowder the overlord with mighty powers. Naturally President Zayas is having the law laid down to him as it should be laid.

The railroad labor board would have it that the shapemen have come to bat and struck out, but the game isn't over yet.

It appears to be more like an alarm clock—that watch on the Rhine nowadays.

A Thought
We never have more than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure.—H. B. Manning.

Sky-Scraper Needed
David Blapham met Oliver Herford in London and in the course of conversation remarked on the fact that as yet Lowell had no skyscrapers. "Why, too," said Herford, "I never saw a sky that needed scraping more."

Poor Little Daisy
It was Daisy's 12th birthday, and she had been given a silver thimble. Her friends admired the gift, but Daisy kept her sentiments to herself. In the evening a very human aunt was shown the useful present. "Poor child!" was her only comment. "Those are the first words of sympathy I've had today!" said Daisy—and her pent-up feelings found relief in tears!

Constant Growth
In 1900, when the American Telephone and Telegraph company took over the American Bell Telephone company, there were 7,000 stockholders. In 1905 the number of stockholders had increased to 17,500. In 1910 there were 40,400 stockholders. In 1915, 65,500 stockholders and there are more now than 201,000 stockholders, more than half of whom are women. The average number of shares held by stockholders is 28.

Fatal Discovery
Eskimos in northeastern Siberia have discovered the Magic Process—how to distill alcohol. They drink it as fast as they can make it, and the whole country is in drunken chaos, according to returned travelers. A newspaperman, crossing to Alaska, reports that Eskimo chiefs are dying for lack of attention, and the older natives "drinking, fighting and killing each other in their orgies." Thus the white man's "civilization" continues spreading.

Today's Word
Today's word is—Cambrian. It's pronounced—kamb-ri-an, with accent on the first syllable. It means—Welsh; something pertaining to Cambria, or Wales. It is used also to describe a certain division of one of the geological eras. It comes from—Cambria, the Latin version of Cymru, the native name of Wales. It's used like this—In recent international discussions in Europe the Cambrian states of Mr. Lloyd George has proved too much for the Gallic ingenuity of M. Poincaré. Or: "The Cambrian division of geological time is so called because it was differentiated, or set apart, originally in Wales."

My Grandma's Brew
Somewhere, in lavender, is laid, Within a carved cedar's space, My grandma's frock of old brocade. Her cherished fan, her treasured lace; But most I prize that yellowed page Which bears in script, as cowboys' fire.

An echo of a gentler age— Her rule for elder-blossom wine. Long, long ago her fingers panned These lines my eager eye beholds— And added merrily at the end "A subtle 'excellent' for edibles."

Believe me, dear, your old lady kin, In which to pledge your fair renown, The ardent cherry's limpid juice— For the sake of your old lady kin, (A glass will oft prevent a chill.)

To you, dear dame, I gratefully raise An airy goblet, bubbled-thin, Accept, these arid nowdays, The points of your old lady kin. How put to more delightful use, In which to pledge your fair renown, The ardent cherry's limpid juice— For the sake of your old lady kin, (A glass will oft prevent a chill.)

My spouse extolls her Mechin divorce, Her fan of fragile ivory— I sing her heady cherry-bounce— A voice-written recipe Whose legend is parenthesis. With prudence qualifies her skill, Let carping critics take amiss. (A glass will oft prevent a chill.)

LARGE AUDIENCES HEAR FORMER PASTOR

The last two Sundays the members and friends of the Westminster United Presbyterian church have had the pleasure of hearing a former parishioner, Rev. John Welsh, D.D., of Jonesboro, Ind. On both occasions he was greeted by large congregations.

Yesterday morning he spoke on the subject, "Life's Unfulfillment," taking his text from Luke, sixth chapter, 15th verse. "He is like a man which built a house, and digged deep and laid the foundation on a rock."

Dr. Welsh drew several illustrations from the parable, emphasizing the importance of foundation such as endurance, elevation and value in character building.

Dr. Welsh, a former Davenport and Lowell boy, has been privileged to travel and speak in nearly every state in the Union and has shown a natural ability to make practical application of things seen and observed during his travels. For several years he has paid an annual visit to his father, Thomas Welsh of 2 Stanley Avenue, Centralville, and this summer intended to spend a month in this section, but his stay has been cut short in order that he may attend the Bible conference which opens next Sunday at Winona Lake, Ind. He has made numerous friends while visiting here and the Westminster church is indeed fortunate to have had his services on two Sundays during his stay this summer.

BUSY WEEK-END FOR LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, Aug. 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Great Britain's versatile prime minister has the satisfaction of having passed a fairly successful week-end.

Although he had to cancel his annual pilgrimage to the Welsh National Eisteddfod, Mr. Lloyd George on Saturday enjoyed a round of golf and closed a 50,000 pound deal for two volumes of memoirs to be published in America next spring.

Then, during a quiet Sunday at Chaux's court, he received congratulations for the success of his entries in the West Surrey goat show at Farnham, four of his goats being awarded "highly recommended" honors in the open class for lambs. Mr. Lloyd George is a member of the Surrey Goat society and maintains a large herd on his estate in Chaut.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

I understand that there are a group of business men who have kept up the practice of visiting the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium twice a week regardless of the warm weather. This group may be found playing volley-ball in the gym every Tuesday and Thursday night from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock. Included in the players are Charlie Brown, Ernie Lamson, Jack Crawford, Capt. Connolly, Fred Howard, Otis Butler, Steve Mahoney, Eddie Doyle and Physical Instructors Hookman and Hale. During the cooler months the group is enlarged by Joseph (Jiggs) Donahue, Eddie Slattery, Packer Riley, Fred Church and a few others. For real good times these volley-ball meetings cannot be approached. The fact that most of the players refuse to give up the sport, despite the excessive heat, attests to the popularity of it.

The other day a woman of my acquaintance stopped me on the street and asked if I would call The Man About Town's attention to what she considered a certain traffic evil. She claims that the traffic officers on duty at various busy centers of the city pay too little attention to the pedestrian and too much to the vehicle. She averred that the officers seldom if ever seem to worry whether or not the walker made his way across the street. And then she claimed that when a signal was given for pedestrians to cross, the officer always insisted that they "step lively." This woman contrasted this city to New York and Boston where, she claimed, the officers paid as much attention to the pedestrian as to the vehicle. The woman seemed to be so firm in her convictions that I did not attempt to argue with her, especially as I have noticed more than once the very condition she pointed out.

I notice that the politicians' campaign card is with us once again after an absence of about a year. In every window nearly at every street corner and on every available vantage point will be found the card calling attention to the fact that so and so is a candidate for such and such an office. While the winter's snow has come and gone since our last local election, one is still able to find fly-specked cards which candidates failed to remove. Some of them carry the smiling faces of unsuccessful candidates who, following the counting of the ballots, did not carry that self-same satisfied look. From now until November, at least, we will have the pleasure of confronting these picture galleries, for where there is one there are many, and getting a real glimpse of the powers that be in politics. Perhaps the display may continue through the winter, one never can tell what will happen, especially if Plan B goes on the ballot as predicted from many quarters.

Four weeks from today the public schools open for another year. The story right along for it seems but yesterday that newspapers carried columns and columns of graduation programs and stories of commencement exercises. In many respects, or in one, at least, this approaching school year is an epochal one in local school annals, for the new high school building will be placed in commission and for the first time in years, all the activities of this huge institution will be governed and carried on under one roof. No more sloping back and forth between the main building and annex in rainy weather, except as the boys will use the drill shed. With the opening of this magnificent building Lowell will be able to show a school equipment second to none in the east.

We wonder if the move of the Five Cent Savings bank in the erection of a new building in John street does not forecast a more rapid development of that section, so near to the main retail quarter, and yet remote because of its slight usage. Surely the natural expansion in the heart of the city is toward those streets in the area that extends from Merrimack street to the Boot mill. With the new bank building, the Y.W.C.A. and the new Merrimack Square theatre, who isn't that a good start toward a proper development of that district?

CURIOSITY

The world's an interesting place
No matter where you go,
And though I've roamed about its face
And wandered to and fro,
I'm always game to sail again
To seek some other shore;
I've only seen a bit of it
And, till I'm wholly quit of it,
I want to see some more!

Two billion people, more or less,
Are living on this sphere,
Seeking their share of happiness
In ways both sane and queer,
And all of them are different,
With different thoughts and lore,
Oh, there is such a slew of them,
I only know a few of them;
I want to know some more!

So I shall wander, while I can,
About the globe's expanse,
And try to learn the heart of man,
His dreams and his romance;
But mostly I shall rove about,
As I have done before,
Because, when once you start to go,
The fever's in your heart to go,
And go—and go some more!

ANTONIO IAVARONE

(By N.E.A. Service)
Although only three years old, he's been kidnapped, held for ransom, threatened with death and rescued. If only he could tell what his big black eyes have seen!
On June 23, he and his mother disappeared. The alarm went out that they had been kidnapped.

The father, a prosperous butcher, received threatening letters. Blackhanders wanted $400 for the child's release.
The father says he paid $200. It was feared the boy might suffer the fate of the Verotta child, slain by kidnappers.
But luck was with him. Antonio was returned unharmed.
His father had been held by conspirators at Syracuse.

Lord Northcliffe Dead

In the heart, which was followed by acute blood poisoning.
The death of no other unofficial personage could have made a deeper impression in England than that of Lord Northcliffe. The news was not a surprise, as the bulletins issued by the doctors for the last week plainly indicated that their patient was dying. The nature of the fatal disease has not yet been revealed, but it is expected the public will soon be told.

Lord Northcliffe was by far the greatest figure in British journalism and the first question on every one's lips was as to what effect his death would have on the policies of the Times and his other newspapers, which, since the end of the war have strongly opposed the Lloyd George administration and its principles with the notable exception of its dealings with Ireland, which the Northcliffe press supported throughout.

Alfred Charles Harmsworth, later Lord Northcliffe, was born at Chislehurst, Dublin county, Ireland, July 15, 1865.

His father, a barrister, wanted the future publisher to follow that profession also, but Harmsworth early showed a decided tendency toward journalism, and entered the writing profession in London when 16 years old.

When 21, Harmsworth founded "Answers" on the theory that a paper cheaply produced could be made within the financial reach of the masses. As this was a departure from established journalism, failure was emphatically predicted for the young publisher. But a few years later he sold Answers for $8,000,000.

Next he bought the London Daily Mail, and with it ventured into the then untrodden field of "tabloid journalism," the telling of news briefly and concisely. In three years the Daily Mail attained the largest circulation of any newspaper in the English language.

Harmsworth rapidly obtained control of other newspapers and magazines (including the London Times) until he became the largest newspaper and magazine owner in the world and one of the richest and most powerful men in the British empire.

He was created baronet in 1901 and raised to the peerage as Baron Northcliffe in 1905. He was made viscount in 1917.

Northcliffe headed the British war mission to the United States in 1917 and was director of propaganda in enemy countries in 1918.

It is generally conceded that Northcliffe's attack on the conduct of the war was responsible for those changes which resulted in the elevation of Lloyd George to the premiership. Later, however, Northcliffe and Lloyd George became embroiled in a violent disagreement.

Lord Northcliffe married Mary Elizabeth Milner in 1888.

$400,000 FIRE IN ROUNDHOUSE

Score of Locomotives Destroyed by Fire at Portland, Maine, Yesterday

Early Report Set Loss at $1,000,000—Fire Followed Two Explosions

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press) Estimates by railroad officials today placed the damage done by the fire which burned No. 3 roundhouse and a score of locomotives in the freight service of the Boston & Maine and Maine Central railroads or used as shunters by the Portland Terminal company yesterday, at $400,000.

While considerable loss of motive power was caused, officials said the service would not be crippled. It means more and faster work for freight service engines until these damaged have been repaired and replaced in service, they explained.

Sheriff King F. Graham said that from reports presented to him, he had been unable to see any legitimate cause for the explosion which immediately preceded the fire and the second one immediately after the flames burst out of a small wooden structure adjoining the engine house.

The damage is covered by the blanket form of insurance carried on all rolling stock and buildings owned by the railroad. Graham later today stated that no was satisfied investigation had shown the fire was not caused by spontaneous combustion, nor from any other ordinary causes in the wooden structure in which it started.

"We are satisfied that it was of incendiary origin," he added. "The fire of the engines damaged belonged to the Maine Central, seven of the Portland Terminal company and five to the Boston & Maine."

An explosion heard by deputy sheriffs shortly after the day watch had started work was the first indication that anything was wrong. It was followed by a second explosion and immediately the entire roundhouse was in flames.

A fire boat responded but was unable to give assistance owing to low tide at that time. A number of engines on the pit were pulled into service and more than 100 freight cars hauled away to safety.

Five engines were saved in this way by pit tenders. The engines in the western section round house were run out. A fourth belonging to the Boston & Maine when run on the table became stalled and prevented others from being saved.

The fire spread rapidly and threatened the plant of the Portland Gas Light Co. All fire fighting apparatus was summoned.

Sheriff King Graham immediately started an investigation and placed a number of additional men on duty in the yards. The sheriff stated that upon presentation of information secured by his deputies he believed the fire was incendiary and that it could not have been caused by spontaneous combustion and attributed the loss to incendiaries.

There were repeated explosions of acetylene gas tanks. A large fuel oil tank in one section of the building contained the attention of one fire engine. Barrels of lubricating and illuminating oil were saved by the combined efforts of another fire engine.

William McShane, in charge of the roundhouse during the late night shift, said he was shocked and that his life was endangered until it was learned he had left for his home a half hour before the fire started.

Reinforced concrete walls of the rolling stock owned by the three roads operating on this division. In addition to the engines burned, the machine repair shop, the air-brake repair shop, water tower, fuel oil plant and part of the turn-table was destroyed.

Officials of the Boston & Maine stated that the loss of the motive power will seriously handicap the road in its operation. While it will not cripple the road to the extent of tying up traffic, all engines will be turned immediately on their arrival. Other engines will be requisitioned from Boston and Waterville.

VICTORY FOR IRREGULARS

Large Force Entered Dundalk, Taking National Garrison by Surprise

Irregulars Completely Routed at Cork—Flying Helter Skelter to the Hills

BELFAST, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press) A large force of Republicans entered Dundalk at 3 o'clock this morning, taking the national garrison completely by surprise. The attack was successful and the town is now isolated with republican troops patrolling the streets.

The Anne street police headquarters, which was occupied by the nationals, was the first objective to be stormed and taken. The garrison was captured.

The fall was the next to fall, and all prisoners, who were mostly republicans, were liberated. These were supplied with arms, and aided their rescuers in the attack on the town, in which bombs were freely used. The railway station and general post office were taken in succession.

Many of the inhabitants, especially Free State sympathizers, fled.

Completely Routed at Cork
CORK, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press) The irregulars, who evacuated Cork before the advance of the national troops, have apparently been completely routed, and are flying helter skelter to the hills of northwestern County Cork. The hills across the border in County Kerry are now sheltering large numbers of irregulars.

The barracks at Fermoy, north of Cork, were burned by the regulars yesterday previous to their evacuating the town. A brigade from Cork is reported to have been ordered to move, following differences of opinion over the firing of the castle there. It is rumored that Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, has been arrested with Mary McSwiney. The whereabouts of Eamon de Valera remains a mystery. When last seen here, he was driving westward in a closed car. This was on Thursday evening, shortly after the irregulars left the city.

The death of Arthur Griffith has caused a profound sensation in Cork and the opinion is widely expressed that there is no one to take his place at this critical period.

RICARD'S CONTEST

The response to the article in Saturday evening's Sun pertaining to the sending of Ricard's Most Popular Player Contest votes in an early this week as possible, has been very gratifying. Hundreds of votes were received at the Ricard store today, convincing Mr. Ricard that the fans of the city are certainly willing to cooperate with him in every way. As fast as the votes are received daily this week they will be sorted and counted by a corps of counters. A big rush is expected the last couple of days of the week, hence the urging to get your votes in early. The contest ends Friday night, this week, August 18th, all votes must positively be in at Ricard's store by closing time Saturday night, August 19th. The contest has been conducted in a systematic way and the contest week has ended with a great deal of a doubt about the counting of the number of votes and one contestant received a certain week they are at liberty to call at Ricard's store and look over that week's total vote and count their own votes.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A pretty miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Annie Tomlinson last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Chubb, 48 West Sixth street. The feature of the evening was a mock marriage, following which refreshments were served by Mrs. Chubb, Miss Rena Rogers and Miss Fendella Platte. Games and dancing were also enjoyed.

Branch Rickey Unique Manager

BRANCH RICKEY

By BILLY EVANS
Rickey first attracted the sporting spotlight by refusing to pay baseball on Sunday.

When he became a manager he carried out the thought along the same lines, and the St. Louis Cardinals is the only major league club that really has two managers.

Bert Shotton directs the club on Sunday, and is known as the Sabbath day manager of the Cardinals. Branch Rickey, however, is original along other lines. Some people will agree with his Sunday ideas, others will laugh at them. Rickey at least has the courage of his convictions.

Since Rickey took charge of the St. Louis Cardinals he has indulged in considerable financial extravagance, big business.

Hardly for Sale
In the short space of four years the St. Louis National League franchise has grown from a bankrupt business into a most prosperous business. It would take more than a half million to purchase the Cardinals today. In all probability the club is not for sale.

In four years Rickey has built a ball club that is making a gallant fight for the National League pennant. The St. Louis Cardinals are favored to win, but it is a certainty that the Cardinals will contest that right all the way.

When Rickey took over the man-gerial reins he made a very peculiar switch. He was president of the Cardinals and Miller Huggins, manager in 1917. When Huggins retired, Rickey assumed the managerial reins. It was the first time in the history of professional baseball where the president of a club succeeded to the management.

Of the players in the present Cardinals squad Rogers Hornsby, Donk and Miller were the left-overs from the Huggins regime. The rest of the team was acquired through "David Barham" trades on the part of Rickey. At one time the New York Giants offered $2,000,000 for Rogers Hornsby. At that time the Cardinals were struggling on bankruptcy, and the Giants needed Hornsby.

On the best authority I have it that there was no talk about the offer, that the correspondence relative to same now resides in Rickey's private safe. It was a tempting offer and it would have been a fine trade to accept. He turned it down.

Rickey, in refusing, looked into the future. He realized that Hornsby was the man around whom he must build his ball club.

That he had the right choice is proved by the showing the Cardinals are making in the 1922 campaign. The New York Giants are certain to be tested to the limit.

Williams Equals Record

By BILLY EVANS

Turn the spotlight on Ken Williams once more. The slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Browns has given Babe Ruth something new to shoot at.

When Williams made two home runs in the sixth inning of the game with Washington on Aug. 7 he equaled a Washington record of 24 home runs in the first nine games of the season.

In the inning that Williams turned in his remarkable feat, St. Louis made nine runs and eight hits. Several more runs would have been scored had it not been for the error in the scoring. St. Louis won the game, 15 to 1.

Only two other batters in the history of major league baseball have ever made two home runs in the same inning. That gives some idea of the rarity of the performance.

On June 10, 1890, C. Jones of Boston made two home runs in one inning, the first major league player to perform such a feat.

The record established by Jones stood for 14 years, when Bobby Lowe of Boston equaled it.

Ken Williams stands out as the first of the so-called modern players to get two home runs in the same inning.

Williams, who is a left-handed batter, made his first home run off George Girdler, a southpaw. On his next trip to the plate, Girdler, a right-hander, had been substituted for Girdler, a southpaw. Williams, who is a left-handed batter, made a style in much favor with Williams.

The season of 1922 has been a record-breaking affair as far as Williams is concerned. On April 22, against Chicago, Williams made three home runs in one game. Only 10 other players in the history of major league baseball have ever performed such a feat.

One game on April 22 was the start of a batting rampage by Williams that lasted eight days.

In three days Williams cracked out four home runs. For three times Williams has been hitting circuit clouts and showing the way to Babe Ruth as well as all the other sluggers in the two major leagues.

Shortly after Williams had made the nine home runs in eight days, he told us that he expected to make 10 home runs during the season.

T. J. Beats Brother J. J. in President's Cup Final at Longmeadow

In a battle-royal over the 36-hole route, T. J. Ward beat his brother, J. J. Ward in the final for the president's cup at the Longmeadow Golf club yesterday. It was a victory for T. J. only by the slightest of margins, however for on the 36th hole an advantage of one stroke decided the match.

Brother J. J. was a worthy opponent from tee to cup on every hole of the 36. He was always "in there" fighting for the lead, but T. J. won a little too steady and a little too sure for Jim.

Their medal play was alike, stroke for stroke over the long distance. Each took a total of 103 shots. T. J., the winner had a hard time of it—41—41—44—105, while Jim's was 42—46—42—100. It was nip and tuck, with no quarter asked and none volunteered.

The president's cup is a beautiful silver trophy and will be replaced for one year, at least, in the hands of T. J. along with others he has picked up through ability to drive, pitch and put.

FAMOUS FOR QUALITY

Too Old for Athletics! Not at 78

By N.E.A. Service
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—When James H. Reilly and Fred Flaisted arranged to scull one another a mile and a quarter on the Schuylkill river, a good many of their friends said they were as young as they thought they were only above their eyebrows.

At 78 and 75 years of age, respectively, these friends said they were two plucky old men to think of such a thing as going in for athletics, but these same friends added that they didn't think so much of the quality of the men's judgment. Such a contest would kill 'em, it was predicted.

They raced, however, and Flaisted covered the course in 8 minutes, 33 seconds, which is considerably better than a lot of men can do at the top of their youthful powers.

As the younger of the two, Flaisted ought to have won, as he did, but Reilly set him a hot pace and he got many cheers as his successful rival did.

Fifty years ago Reilly and Flaisted were champions. Through all the decades they kept in condition by a little paddling each summer.

It was Flaisted who issued the challenge. He was ready to row any sculler above 70 he said, and at first Jim Reilly took him up, but later he changed his mind, saying he guessed he was a little past such strenuous exercise.

Then along came the veteran Reilly from Saratoga—Flaisted is a Philadelphian—and said he didn't propose to let the latter get away with the idea that he, Reilly, was afraid of him on account of his quarter of a dozen years' advantage. And, for that matter, he added that he wasn't so sure it was an advantage either, because at 78 a man was more mature than he was at 75, and probably possessed more strength and endurance.

Unarmed a couple of generations more youthful report that they learned quite a bit from seeing these two old-timers tearing along the water in competition with one another.

They announce now that they intend to row together each year as long as they feel fit enough.

Only a Beginner
As for Hilton Belyea, Reilly and Flaisted agree that he's a mere beginner. All Belyea is, he is 35, and he himself admits he hasn't come into his own yet. He aspires to the world title as a single scull pilot.

People call him the "human steamboat" to sign his craft, so far as the matter of propulsion is concerned, as nearly as he can on steamboat principles. The older his back blades are, the more force he can put upon them and the faster he can go, he says. They mean-sure more than 13 inches across, which is peculiar, but within the rules of amateur craftsmanship.

Belyea is the St. John's, N. B., fisherman who holds the Canadian singles championship, and who, at the recent regatta of the National Association of Amateur Golfers, won the American on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia, where Reilly and Flaisted staged their contest, won the association singles also.

The Canadian's hobby course is the St. John's river. Scattered along this stream are many small islands upon which the cattle graze.

Aquatic Range Riding
These animals are sent to swim to the islands from the New Brunswick shore for their ration, and part of Belyea's training is to row behind herds of them, to see that they go where it's desired they should. Herding fancy bred cattle from a boat is a bit out of the ordinary, but Belyea says it's good training. That, and fishing, keep him in condition. No current is too swift for him.

A few years ago Belyea was hurled from a bicycle against a rock and the repairs a surgeon was compelled to make on him included the riveting of a broken collar bone.

His right eye was somewhat affected by this accident but it doesn't interfere with his rowing, which he says he intends to continue until he has accumulated a good many more titles.

Y. M. C. I. Winner

Saturday afternoon's rain refused to permit the Twilight League to make any marked advance in its schedule of postponed games. The first game, between the Y. M. C. I. and Broadways, occupied six and one-half wearying hours.

The House of David nine is now on a tour of New England, and games in which the team has participated in Haverhill, Lawrence, Fitchburg and other cities, have attracted thousands of people. However, they are a classy playing team, and have made a great record for themselves.

Lefty Tyler will go into the box against the visitors and his brother Fred will catch. Lefty tried out the new pitcher yesterday after the game when he pitched for the Fitchburg semi-professionals against Lizzie Murphy's Providence Independents. He was in good luck, scoring three runs, and his old time class against the long-haired outfit. The other members of Tyler's outfit will be made up of the best Lowell men available.

AFTER NATIONAL TENNIS TITLE

Helen Wills, 15-year-old California tennis prodigy, will try for the women's tennis championship of the United States in the tournament to be held at Forest Hills, N. Y.

The Great Middleweight Muddle

Middleweight boxers will hereafter defend their titles in the "muddleweight" class until it is cleared up.

Since the day Bryan Downey was out-refered in his melee with Johnny Wilson and since the New York Commission has awarded the title to Dave Rosenberg of New York and since Jock Malone out-smacked Downey there is a great muddle of middleweights.

They are all champs (in their own states) and the score stands four to nothing.

Johnny Wilson is still the champion in Massachusetts, Bryan Downey is the Ohio champ, Jock Malone in Minnesota and Dave Rosenberg is king of New York, and Brooklyn.

There may be a little clearing about Labor Day, when Jock Malone and Downey meet again for "the championship" in their respective locality.

Another Swimming Record
LOUISVILLE, Aug. 14.—Johnny Welschmiller, Illinois A.C., Chicago, established another world record swimming yesterday in the Louisville Y. M. C. pool, when he swam 150 yards free-style in 1:29 1-5 in a 50-yard pool. The old record of 1:32 1-5 was set by Duke Kahanamoku, of Hawaii.

Twin Boxers—One Trains, One Fights

The Hahn Twins are not generally known in athletic circles, although Bennie, the flashy bantam, has punched his way to a contender's place in the championship glare.

Bennie and Bonnie Hahn are from turbulent West Virginia, and while Bennie fights out of Wheeling, he resides in Wellsburg, within a few miles of the recent mine war at the Cliftonville (W. Va.) mines.

Bennie owns a large farm and really has spent some as a true rustic, but Brother Bennie is the genuine fighter. Still, he finds time on the side to aid Bennie in his training, though he himself never has con-

CENTRALVILLES WIN FRANCE AND AUSTRALIA IN FINAL MATCH

Ninth Inning Rally Gives Locals Victory Over Woburn Legion Team

Centralvilles and the Woburn Legion team clashed at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon, and although the game was marred by a decision of the umpire in the ninth, to which nearly every fan took exception, it proved one of the very best of the Sunday series arranged by Manager Foye. The batting was terrific, and although the legion men were five hits to the bad when hostilities ceased, they had to their credit ten hits which included three doubles and a triple. The Centralvilles scored their tally on 15 hits, two doubles and a triple. The final score was Centralvilles 7, Woburn 6.

Centralvilles started the scoring at the outset, tallying five in the first three innings. In the third, the Centralville bats were idle, and remained so until the sixth. Woburn scored one in the first and remained quiescent until the sixth, when a volley of hits resulted in four runs. In the seventh they scored their sixth and last run, leading by one.

In the ninth, the Centralville swat-sticks were unwrapped once more, and they proceeded to punish the pill. McVey, batting for Bradbury, was out on a fly to center. McCarthy took up the burden for Garrity, and aligned to first. O'Doherty muffed Daley's drive to third, and there were two on. Pare singled over second. J. Weaver, brother of the slasher, and former New England leaguer, made a quick return, but Umpire Marcotte called Cawley, who had been out on a fly to center, a strike. The umpire's decision was protested, and after a short dispute the game continued, and Walter Foye singled, bringing in Daley with the winning run. Crowe started at short, making two hits in three appearances, and effecting six perfect plays in the field. The score:

Fletcher, Dimmed as Player Star, to Shine Again as Manager?

BY BILLY EVANS

To be picked right out of the brightest group in the National league firmament, the New York constellation, and transferred to the gloomy obscurity of the Philadelphia club, away down in an inconspicuous place on the horizon, is pretty severe on a baseball star.

But it happens to all of them. The star twinkles for just about as long, but once it begins to fade—

What You Are

Well, to drop metaphor, with McGraw and his Giants, it isn't what you were but what you are.

Thus it was that Arthur Fletcher took his departure, in duo season, from the Polo grounds, just as many players had done before him.

Next we find him with the Philadelphia Nationals.

Unlike many men of his profession, Fletcher neither sought nor leaped on the new team. He took the change as a matter of course—as an episode in the life of every ball player. And because he continued to play with the same snap and dash with the tail-end Phillies which had characterized him with the Giants for a period of more than ten years, he's still recognized as a valuable major league asset, though he's traveling on thin ice now, to the extent of 30 years of age.

May Be Manager

What's more, it is rumored in National league circles today that he's

to become Philadelphia manager in 1923.

Fletcher's type is rapidly becoming thin in the major league circuit. A scholar of the McGraw school, he believes in the choke-on tactics, never giving your opponent an inch and winning the game in front of you. He is looking for such tactics with the Phillies, trying to win for them as he did for the Giants, but of course the same quality in the case is not present.

Fletcher has not reached the end of his string, far from it. He was regarded so highly by two major league clubs during the past winter that secret negotiations were alleged to have been carried on, with Fletcher receiving offers to turn down the Phillies.

Just Like Others

These cases attracted so much attention that the St. Louis and Brooklyn clubs were called upon to apologize to the owner of the Phillies and they escaped with a rapscallion from President Heydler of the National league.

Fletcher had to step aside for youth just as did Morrie McGraw. Billy Gilbert, Dahlen, Davlin, Brasman, Donlin, Seymour, Howeman, Murray, Burns, Doyle, Herzog, Morrie, Morrie, Marquard, Sallee, Chief Meyers and others.

In the recent machinations turned out by McGraw in 1917-1918-1919 Fletcher belonged to the brilliant infield combination which had Morrie on first, Larry Doyle on second and Herzog or Zimmerman on third.

Certain Pitchers and Their Jinx

MONTON

NEFF

SHOCKER

By BILLY EVANS

It really is remarkable the jinx that pitchers often exert over certain clubs. Ever since the Yankees traded Urban Shocker to St. Louis, the great spitball pitcher has been a thorn in the side of the New York team.

This chief delight is beating the Yankees. He has beaten the Yankees a time since out of town. As a matter of fact, it has not been unusual for him to work twice in a four-game series against the Yankees. Victory, as a rule, has crowned his efforts.

Of late the Yankees have been having a bit more success against Shocker, due to the breakers of the game, rather than to inferior pitching.

In a recent series at St. Louis, and in the last series at New York, Shocker twice opened the Yankees in each series and suffered four defeats. Four games is more than he usually loses to the New York club during the entire season.

Guy Mottson of the Cleveland club is equally effective against the Boston Red Sox. Ever since Mottson joined the American league, the Red Sox have been soft picking, even when the club was a strong pennant contender.

Ray Kolt of the St. Louis club has been almost as successful against Cleveland during the short time he has been in the American league.

Artie Neff, the crack southpaw of the New York Giants, has always found the Pittsburgh team to his liking. The Pirates haven't beaten him since August 31, 1920. During that time Neff has opposed the Pittsburgh club twelve times and scored a victory each time.

Eleven straight wins over a ball club like Pittsburgh constitutes something of a pitching record. In those eleven games the Pirates were able to make only 16 runs, an average of less than a run and a half per game.

Prior to the trade that brought him to New York, Neff was a member of the Boston Braves. Even with that club he exerted a strong influence over the Pittsburgh team, winning 12 and losing 7.

However, when he joined the Giants he began to wield an even more potent influence. As a member of the New York club he has won 17 and lost only two games to Pittsburgh.

Twin Sisters Win Honors

ELEANOR (UPPER) AND RUTH (LOWER) ARE THE SMITH TWINS OF COLUMBUS, OH. WHO HAVE WON NATIONAL RECOGNITION AS SWIMMERS AND DIVERS. ACTION POSE. BELOW THE SISTERS ARE GETTING AWAY TO A FAST START

(By N.E.A. Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—Ruth and Eleanor Smith of Columbus claim to be the only twin sisters holding national honors as swimmers and divers. They're so much alike that Ruth has to identify action pictures of herself by studying the broken finger on Eleanor's left hand.

Wearing the colors of Ohio State university, the Smith sisters, as freshmen, established district records in the only three meets in which they competed during the indoor tank season just closed.

Eleanor tied the world's record for a 60-foot pool by swimming 100 yards, free style, in 1:06.1 at the Columbus Athletic club. Ruth finished second in 1:08.4.

The twins again finished one-two in 50 yards, free style, at Cleveland, Eleanor clipping 29.1 for a new district mark.

Ruth is applying for recognition of 1,23.1 as new time for the 100-yard national breast stroke, since she set that pace in the Columbus Athletic club last spring, after a season in which she covered the distance in 1:25. The last national championship record allowed was 1:22 in Ruth's name.

The family rivalry may break out anew on land now, for Ruth stepped out to distinction in a different direction this spring by running one leg of the 220-yard relay race in which four Ohio State university girls established a new world's record of 23:4.5 seconds for women.

ALL STARS PLAY RED SOX IN BENEFIT GAME

BOSTON, August 14.—A team of American league baseball stars got together to oppose the Red Sox in Fenway park today, in a benefit game for the late Thomas F. McCarthy, a noted outfielder in early days of the big leagues.

The all-star combination was to be drawn from Catchers: Nunnaker, Cleveland; Do Vornier, New York; Yarnall, Chicago; and Hughes, Philadelphia. Pitchers: Naylor, Philadelphia and Johnson, Detroit; Infielders: Doc Johnson and Ben Young, Philadelphia; McMillan, White Sox; Donie Bush, Washington; Mike McNally, Yankees and Plagstad of Detroit; Outfielders: Walker, Philadelphia; Evans, Cleveland and Shorten, St. Louis.

D'Annunzio Seriously Injured

GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO, Italy, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italy's noted soldier-poet, was seriously injured in the head by a fall yesterday in the garden of his villa here. For some time following the accident, his condition gave rise to considerable anxiety. Medical reports today were more reassuring, but his doctors declined to express a definite opinion on his chances for recovery.

GIANTS INCREASE THEIR LEAD

Recruit Barnes Makes Good in His First Start as Giant Regular

Cards. Continue to Slip—Lornsby Knocks Out His 29th Home Run

Reds Halt Pirates' Winning Streak Which Had Reached 13 Games

NEW YORK, August 14.—Virgil Barnes, hurler, made his first start as a Giant regular in the box against the Braves, defeated them 4 to 2 and helped his fellow McGrawites to lengthen their lead over the Cardinals whose seven errors contributed largely to their defeat by the Cubs 16 to 5.

Horvath's 25th home run of the season accounted for one of the St. Louis scores.

In the American league, both St. Louis and New York met defeat and their battle for the lead showed no change. The Yankees, with Jones having one bad inning, lost to Washington 3 to 2, while the White Sox pounded three of the Browns' hurlers to win 9 to 3.

Brooklyn, through eighth and ninth innings, had not scored three runs, was enabled to turn back the Phillies 3 to 2. It took Cincinnati ten innings to force Pittsburgh, 5 to 1, and broke the Pirates' winning streak which had reached 13 games.

In the only other American league game, Speaker's men won from the Cobb clan, 3 to 2.

Babe Out of Hospital

NEW YORK, August 14.—Babe Ruth's absence from the game because of an abscess on his right leg, caused by a slide, will be short-lived, it was announced today.

The home run king was ordered to the hospital Friday for treatment and was dismissed last night. It was told to post players that his wife said that Babe expected to be in the game again tomorrow or Wednesday.

"DON'T BET"—STRAIGHT TIP FROM JOCKEY

By MILTON BRONNER

PARIS, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—"Straight from the feedbox" from the American jockey, Frank O'Neill, premier rider of French race tracks, and

regarded as the greatest jockey in the world

Says O'Neill: "I think gambling on horses is a game, but I never bet, and I never give tips to friends."

"The only certain thing about horse racing is its uncertainty. It's the only game where the winner of one moment in the certain loser of the next."

"No jockey who knows the game regards his race as won until the judge has hoisted the winning number."

Idol of French Tracks

O'Neill is the idol of the French tracks and in 14 years' racing in Europe has won 1300 races, prizes to the owners ranging from 2000 to 300,000 francs.

You can't find O'Neill loafing about the boulevards or jazz tracks of Paris. He has a house and garden in the suburb of Mantes La Jolie, where he lives with his wife, his 13-year-old son and two little daughters.

"I've been successful and I've made money," says O'Neill. "But I don't make anything like the huge sums dopesters say I do. When I'm not riding I'm at home playing with the kids."

60 MILE MARATHON

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Sixty of Philadelphia's fastest runners today faced fifty picked athletes from New York in the 60-mile relay marathon from Camden, N. J., to Atlantic City, held under the auspices of the Philadelphia Athletic club. Each team consisted of ten men and each man was to run approximately six miles. The race was said to be the last of its kind ever held in the United States and plans have been made to establish it as an annual event.

House of Correction

Although Mike Sokolowski pleaded guilty to drunkenness, he could not remember the circumstances surrounding his alleged assault and battery with a knife upon Joseph Yankowski, when called before Judge Enright in district court this morning, but the faces of the two men plainly showed that something in the nature of an assault had taken place very recently.

The defendant said that he was very drunk at the time and that he could not remember. He wore a white plaster on his left cheekbone, while the complainant was decorated with bandages on his upper lip, the lower right corner of his mouth, and on the neck, under the right ear.
